The atmosphere Saturday in Hardin County was friendlier than one might expect during a Cards and Cats match-up with a trip to the championship game on the line.

Fans donned their blue and red best Saturday night to watch the Final Four showdown between the University of Louisville and University of Kentucky men's basketball teams. Beef O'Brady's and 3 Putt Willie's were packed with fans of both teams cheering side-by-side.

Servers at Beef O'Brady's wore jerseys, T-shirts and hair bows for their favorite teams. At 3 Putt's, they donned friendly-to-all red and blue beads. 3

Putt's went a step further with red and blue balloons and streamers around the bar, and customers could order beer or shots in their favorite team color.

There were a number of couples and groups that had reached some level of ceasefire, and enemies

Pine Valley going up for auction

Court rules in favor of bank in foreclosure suit

By MARTY FINLEY
mfinley@thenewsenterprise.com

Hardin Circuit Court has ruled in favor of South Central Bank in a foreclosure suit against Pine Valley Country Club Inc. and the properties soon will be up for public bid.

Hardin Circuit Judge Ken Howard ruled South Central Bank is owed more than $2.2 million on three notes Pine Valley Country Club Inc. took out with the bank. Howard ordered the properties sold together at a master commissioner's sale, scheduled for 10 a.m. April 19 at the Hardin County Justice Center in Elizabethtown.

The highest bidder must pay in cash or provide a 10 percent deposit of the purchase price with the balance to be paid within 30 days, according to a notice of sale.

South Central Bank of Hardin County renewed its foreclosure suit against Pine Valley Country Club Inc. in October in an effort to collect money it argues it is owed. The suit describes two default loans taken out by Pine Valley in 2002 and a third loan in 2003 by Club Pro Products.

The case dates to 2009 but stalled when Pine Valley Country Club filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy in February 2010. The bankruptcy case was dismissed in April 2011.

The court ruled South Central Bank is owed $920,709.38 plus interest on the first note, $922,984.37 plus interest on the second note and $382,863.68 plus interest on the third note.

Howard issued a lien on the property on behalf of South Central Bank, which is superior to any other liens or "encumbrances" against the property unless there are city, state, county or school taxes owed by the property owners; easements, restrictions and covenants of record; assessments of public improvements on the property; or any other facts an inspection or "accurate survey" of the property may reveal.

The court also ruled the property won't be divided because it could damage its value to South Central Bank.

In a reply by South Central Bank supporting renewal of foreclosure, the bank said Pine Valley's counsel, Douglas E. Miller, appeared at an Oct. 18 hearing but argued he did not have "sufficient informa-

Students from around the world seek ...

A taste of America

Foreign exchange program provides opportunity to sample U.S. culture, education

By KELLY CANTRALL
kcantrall@thenewsenterprise.com

For foreign exchange students, high school classes aren't the only learning opportunities available this year. For them, just living in Hardin County is an education.

Students from around the world have spent the school year in Hardin County to experience the United States firsthand and study in its education system. Most of the students, primarily from Europe and Asia, wanted the opportunity to sharpen their English skills and develop an understanding of American culture.

Carlos Estudillo, Carolin Droop, Chanon Hantaveevongsa, Chanya Butsaparek and Amanda Wu study at John Hardin High School. Chiara Falduto, Danielle Fellgiebel and Raquel Ortega have spent the year at Elizabethtown High School. Alfredo Pardo and Congcong Guan are at Central Hardin High School. All the students came to the U.S. last summer.

Estudillo, a senior, left his home in Guadalajara, Mexico, because he wanted to learn English and experience American culture. Estudillo said "the American dream" is alive in Mexico and he wanted to see it for himself.

"We see America like Disney World," he said.

Droop, a junior from Rotenburg, Germany, was interested in learning English and wanted "to change my view of the world," she said.

"It's also a great way to experience the American way of life," Droop said.

Wu, a junior from Chengdu, China, didn't care for her first impression of the U.S. when she visited Philadelphia, but she wanted to study outside of her country.

"I don't like the whole education system in China, it's just so stressful," Wu said.

Most of the students have found several differences between their home schools and the educational system in America. Most of them don't switch between classes at home and many said

An Elizabethtown High School freshman has been arrested, two more students are being investigated by police and at least seven others face school disciplinary action after a student was found Thursday distributing prescription pills in a classroom.

Elizabethtown police responded at 8:50 a.m. Thursday after students reported the activity to staff members. An investigation led officers to a 15-year-old female student who was distributing oxycodone, hydrocodone and morphine tablets, police said.

The medication was taken from an adult family member, EPD Sgt. Tim Cleary said. The man was in the hospital

Michigan man accused of rape to appear in court

Dunnivant arrived in Kentucky just before being arrested

By SARAH BENNETT
sbennett@thenewsenterprise.com

A move-in sex offender facing rape and incest charges in Hardin County is scheduled to appear in court Tuesday to enter a plea.

Kentucky State Police arrested David B. Dunnivant, 46, last August after Post 4 in Elizabethtown received a phone call from Hardin Memorial Hospital, police said. The hospital reported treating a patient who claimed she was raped.

From Michigan, Dunnivant was initially charged with first-degree rape, incest and possession of marijuana. The alleged victim in the case is an adult female relative.

When he was indicted in October, an additional charge of tampering with a witness was added for an incident that occurred between Sept. 3 and Sept. 14.

The indictment alleges, "(The) defendant committed the offense of tampering with a witness when knowing (the alleged victim) may be called as a witness in an official proceeding he induced or attempted to induce (the alleged victim) not to appear as a witness in the pending case."

Since his Aug. 18 arrest, Dunnivant has been lodged at Hardin County Detention Center in lieu of a $100,000 cash or double property bond.

Court records indicate he is considered a danger to others because of the nature of the offense and his recent parole for a prior offense in Michigan.

According to the judicial release decision, Dunnivant was released on parole June 11. The alleged encounter occurred Aug. 17.

The police citation states Dunnivant had arrived in Kentucky "in the past month and has not established a permanent residence."

Dunnivant is a lifetime registered offender, according to the Sex Offender Registry. He previously was convicted of second-degree criminal sexual conduct.

According to Michigan penal code, someone is guilty of this offense when he or she engages in sexual conduct with a person younger than 13. Dunnivant's victim was 11 years old, according to the registry.

The Hardin Circuit Court docket has Dunnivant scheduled to enter a plea Tuesday. He will appear in Judge Ken Howard's courtroom.

First-degree rape is a Class B felony, punishable by 10 to 20 years in prison if found guilty. The incest and tampering charges are Class C and D felonies respectively.

Military says Kentucky soldier dies in Afghanistan

The Department of Defense says a 20-year-old soldier from Kentucky has died in Afghanistan.

According to a news release Saturday, Spc. David W. Taylor of Dixon died Thursday in Kandahar province. The military did not say how Taylor died.

Taylor was assigned to the 2nd Battalion, 508th Parachute Infantry Regiment, 4th Brigade Combat Team, 82nd Airborne Division at Fort Bragg, N.C.

LEXINGTON

Auto company fined for consumer violations

Attorney General Jack Conway has obtained a consent judgment against a Nicholasville automotive company for violating the Kentucky Consumer Protection Act.

The judgment is against MAC Auto, doing business as Chrysler on Nicholasville and operating as Nissan on Nicholasville, after Conway's office received complaints that the company had violated some terms of a previous compliance agreement.

The violations included misrepresenting financing terms, disposing of trade-in vehicles before financing was finalized and failing to pay trade-in balance and transfer titles of purchased vehicles in a timely manner.

MAC is ordered to pay $15,000 in civil penalties under the judgment entered in Franklin Circuit Court.

Pay for university presidents on rise

The pay for public university presidents in Kentucky has increased more in recent years than that of faculty.

A report from the Legislative Research Commission shows salary increases for university presidents ranged between 5 percent and 34 percent from 2006 to 2010. The Southern Regional Education Board said the average faculty pay in the state increased by 7.7 percent in the same time.

Meanwhile, schools are grappling with millions in state funding cuts that have meant higher tuition and the loss of some programs.

OWENSBORO

New National Guard facility to open in April

The Kentucky National Guard's $14 million readiness facility in Owensboro is set to open in mid-April and will be the Guard's most modern facility in the state.

The new facility will hold administrative offices, classrooms, locker rooms to store equipment, a 3,500-square-foot assembly/mess hall and kitchen. The center's lobby features a metal eagle emblem that used to hang over the entrance of the old armory in Owensboro that this facility is replacing.

Quality time is purpose for Pinewood Derby

By KELLY CANTRALL
kcantrall@thenewsenterprise.com

As toy cars shoot down a track with a crowd gathered around to watch, it would appear the race is the main event of the Cub Scouts' Pinewood Derby. But it's what goes into making the cars that's the real deal.

Cub Scouts from several counties gathered Saturday to compete in the annual Pinewood Derby at Gloria Dei Lutheran Church in Elizabethtown, where scouts and adults team up to make cars then race them in competitions.

While scouts competed to move to the finals later in the afternoon, the real mission of the Pinewood Derby is to allow the scouts and adults in their lives to spend quality time together, said Larry Arnold, Central Kentucky service area program executive. It's seeing the children have fun that matters to Arnold.

"I like being around the kids all the time anyway," Arnold said.

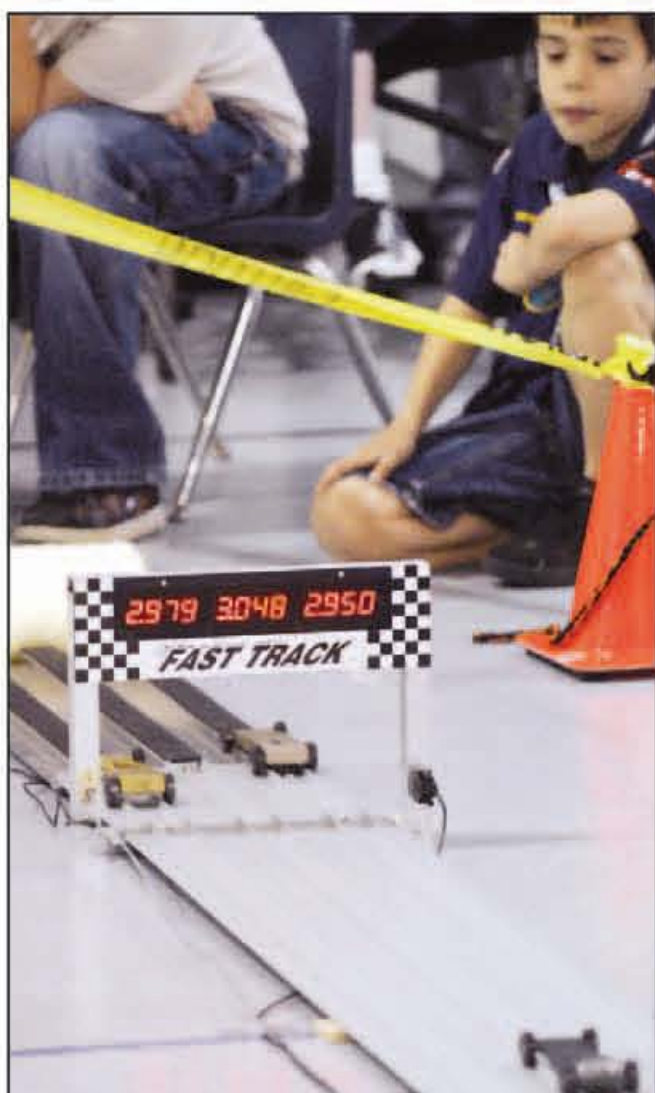

Steve Kielty, chairman of the Derby, said camaraderie brought to those involved is the purpose.

"That's what it's designed for," Kielty said.

Joshua Sedlak of Elizabethtown came in first in his den and in his pack, and made the finals Saturday, with a green car decked out with snakes and a SpongeBob SquarePants design. Joshua and his father, Jim, worked on the car for about a week.

"This is his best year," Jim Sedlak said of his son's performance.

Joshua said he enjoys creating and decorating the car the best "because you get to choose what you want to do."

His father enjoys that part as well.

"We get a lot of time together," he said.

Damon Beville and Carlos Gonzalez enjoy the races. They both built their cars with Beville's grandfather. Beville likes the speed involved, and Gonzalez said the challenge is his favorite part of the event.

Obama pushing millionaires' tax

By JIM KUHNHENN
The Associated Press

WASHINGTON — President Barack Obama is calling on Congress to increase taxes on millionaires, reviving a proposal he first pitched last September that aims to draw sharp election-year lines between the president and the Republican opposition.

The plan, scheduled for a vote in the Democratic-controlled Senate on April 16, stands little chance of passing in Congress. But it is a prominent symbol of the efforts the president and congressional Democrats are making to portray themselves as champions of economic fairness. Republicans dismiss the idea as a political stunt with little effect on the budget.

"We don't envy success in this country. We aspire to it," Obama said in his Saturday radio and Internet address. "But we also believe that anyone who does well for themselves should do their fair share in return, so that more people have the opportunity to get ahead — not just a few."

Obama calls the plan the "Buffett Rule" for Warren Buffett, the billionaire investor who has complained that rich people like him pay a smaller share of their income in federal taxes than middle-class taxpayers. Many wealthy taxpayers earn investment income, which is taxed at 15 percent. Obama has proposed people earning at least $1 million annually — whether in salary or investments — should pay at least 30 percent of their income in taxes.

The push for the Buffett Rule comes as millions of Americans focus on taxes with the approach of this year's April filing deadline.

It also draws renewed attention to the effective tax rate of Republican presidential front-runner Mitt Romney, a millionaire who is paying 15.4 percent in federal taxes for 2011 on income mostly derived from investments.

By contrast, the top nominal rate for taxpayers with high incomes derived from wages, not investments, is 35 percent.

While the plan would force millionaires and billionaires to part with more of their money, Congress' Joint Committee on Taxation estimated that if enacted, legislation reflecting Obama's proposal would collect $47 billion through 2022 — a trickle compared with the $7 trillion in federal budget deficits projected during that period.

Obama also renewed his call for ending tax cuts for taxpayers earning more than $250,000. Those breaks, enacted during President George W. Bush's first term, expire at the end of this year.

"Today, the wealthiest Americans are paying taxes at one of the lowest rates in 50 years," Obama said. "Warren Buffett is paying a lower rate than his secretary. Meanwhile, over the last 30 years, the tax rates for middle-class families have barely budged."

New tornado warnings are aimed to scare

By BILL DRAPER
The Associated Press

KANSAS CITY, Mo. — Even expert storm chasers would have struggled to decipher the difference between the tornado warnings sent last May before severe weather hit Joplin and, a few days later, headed toward downtown Kansas City.

The first tornado was a massive EF-5 twister that killed 161 people as it wiped out a huge chunk of the Missouri community. The second storm caused minor damage when two weak tornadoes struck in the Kansas City suburbs.

In both cases, the warnings were harbingers of touchdowns. But three out of every four times the National Weather Service issues a tornado warning, there isn't one. The result is a "cry wolf" phenomenon that's dulled the effectiveness of tornado warnings, and one the weather service hopes to solve.

Starting Monday, five weather service offices in Kansas and Missouri will use words such as "mass devastation," "unsurvivable" and "catastrophic" in a new warning based on severity of a storm's expected impact. The goal is to more effectively communicate dangers of approaching storms so people understand the risks.

"We'd like to think that as soon as we say there is a tornado warning, everyone would run to the basement," said Ken Harding, a weather service official. "That's not how it is. They will channel flip, look out the window or call neighbors. A lot of times people don't react until they see it."

The system being tested will create two tiers of warnings for thunderstorms and three tiers for tornadoes, each based on severity. A research team in North Carolina will analyze the results of the experiment and help the weather service decide whether to expand the new warnings to other parts of the country.

E'town events coordinator faces significant tasksISSUE: Elizabethtown's new events coordinatorOUR VIEW: Volunteers continue to be essential

In announcing the selection of Sarah Vaughn for the new position of events coordinator for Elizabethtown city government, Mayor Tim Walker said it's essential that she "hits the ground running."

That statement should be nominated as the understatement of the year.

In July, the city hopes to stage a new event honoring Independence Day and Elizabethtown's Founders Day. On the last weekend of the month, she's also looking at the third annual Cruisin' the Heartland car show, which is a proven success but quite a logistical challenge.

Another looming decision is the fate of this year's Heartland Festival. Freeman Lake Park has been reserved for the traditional late August date but all the other myriad planning details need immediate attention.

And when Vaughn was introduced formally Monday to the Elizabethtown City Council, there were good-natured "hints" that members were looking forward to handing off the summer concert to the newest employee.

Summer always is going to be hectic in this role. The challenge is immense for a brand new employee jumping into a brand-new job trying to stage new events and take control of existing ones.

The message to the community: Help.

Volunteers will continue to be essential. The fact that these activities now become functions of city government does not mean all the functions will be managed by paid staff nor can city taxpayers afford for them to be.

City government always has been involved with events of this type, from trash collection to police security. The functionality and processes essentially are unchanged and that means volunteer investments remain critical.

Supporting the events equals supporting the community.

Sarah Vaughn deserves a fighting chance. Her track record with the Via Colori street festival demonstrates her ability to plan and organize a complex yet fun community event. She brings a fresh outlook, a spirit of excitement and devotion plus a demonstrated work ethic.

"My job is part of my life. It's not just a job," said Vaughn, who formally started work Wednesday. "Now with the city, it will be even more so."

Some individuals and groups expressed support for Rik Hawkins, the former chamber director credited with starting Cruisin' and conducting an impactful Heartland Festival around the theme of a Vietnam veterans homecoming.

Here's hoping Hawkins will continue to demonstrate his professionalism and skill by standing in the forefront of the volunteer troupe.

There's no reason to think otherwise. When discussing his disappointment in not being selected as events coordinator, Hawkins said the right things:

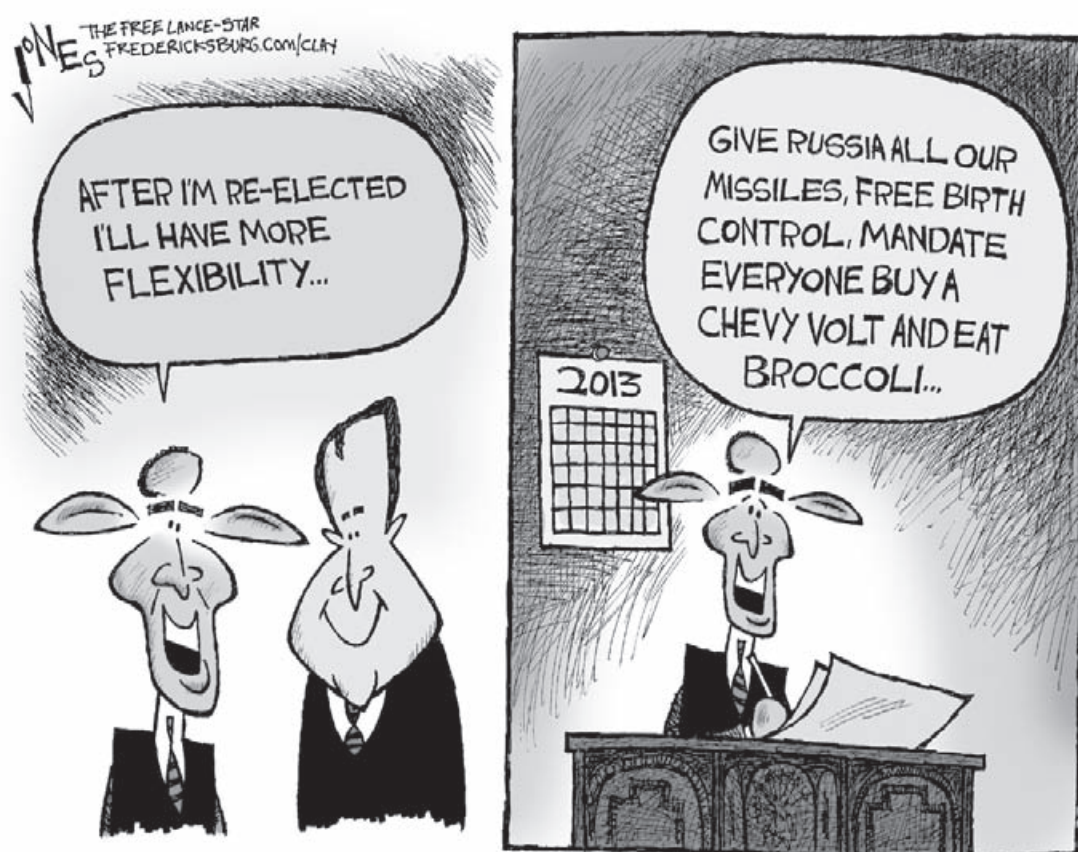

"I have a strong desire to see all of these events succeed and new ones created."

Now he can demonstrate his sincerity.

Vaughn has confidence in him.

"Rik's a fantastic man and so great to work with," she said. "He's a huge supporter of the community and I know he'll play the same role that he always has."

It promises to be a very fun summer.

IN OTHER VIEWS

The views below are not intended to reflect those of the editorial board of The News-Enterprise.

Even the rich have parking problems

Mitt Romney, who is worth between $190 million and $250 million, has problems relating to the common man.

He keeps dropping remarks that show he is not quite in tune with the proletariat, not marching in step with the horny-handed sons of toil to rousing choruses of "Solidarity Forever."

However, unlike his predecessor as Republican frontrunner and ultimate nominee, John McCain, who had no idea how many homes he owned (to be fair most of them belonged to his wealthy wife), Romney knows exactly how many he has — three.

A townhome in the tony Boston suburb of Belmont; a $12 million vacation compound at Lake Winnepesaukee, N.H. (try it; it's fun to say); and a $10 million beachfront place in La Jolla, Calif.

The large Romney clan has apparently outgrown the $10 million getaway cottage, described by Politico as "comparatively modest" but in La Jolla "comparatively modest" has a different meaning than it does for most people.

Nonetheless, candidate Romney wants to add a second floor and a 3,600 square foot basement, quadrupling the size of the house.

If he wants to be in that house in his lifetime, he'd better get elected president. He'll need the clout to get through California's labyrinthine bureaucracy. He must get both coastal development and site development permits and then the detailed plans must receive municipal approval. The timeline, a local development official told Politico, could stretch for years.

Romney has even retained a lobbyist for his project. No one out there seems to find this at all strange for a single-family house.

But even the wealthy Romney has run into a problem he shares with many plebian homeowners — more cars than he has garage space for. Remember, Ann Romney drives two Cadillacs, just as many of us drive two of something or other.

Romney hit on a solution that many homeowners with jammed carports wish they had thought of: a car lift, an elevator to hoist the cars between floors.

Herbert Hoover, an earlier Republican candidate who successfully sought the party's nomination, ran on the slogan: "A chicken in every pot and a car in every garage."

Romney is pledged to take away our government health-care and cut the taxes of his fellow millionaires. The least he could do is promise a car — and a car lift — in every garage. We'll take care of the chicken part ourselves.

We haven't heard the last of jail-baptism conflict

It can be dangerous to discuss religious beliefs. It's even more dangerous to discuss someone else's religious beliefs.

But to fully appreciate the jailhouse issue raised last week before Hardin Fiscal Court, it's essential to begin by seeking to understand.

To review, the Elizabethtown Church of Christ made a presentation during the informational portion of Tuesday's public meeting. The church is one of several local congregations offering religious instruction, ministry and prayer at the Hardin County Detention Center.

Church members want the opportunity to baptize inmates wishing to do so. As a matter of policy, that practice is not allowed. Several practices offered in a variety of faith traditions also are prohibited. The list ranges from personal mutilation and nudity to use of Rosary beads and prayer cloths.

While polite and measured in their remarks, the Church of Christ presentation also was direct and forceful.

It's quite clear members plan to stand their ground. Based on their beliefs, no other option is possible.

Historically, the Church of Christ has been known as a people of the Book. It's a capital B because their book, of course, is the Bible. It is the sole rule and authority.

Based on a precise interpretation and understanding of New Testament instruction and practice, the Church of Christ teaches that baptism is essential in the salvation experience.

While it might be seen in some Christian traditions as an ordinance, sacrament or "outward sign of an inward faith," the Church of Christ professes and teaches that baptism is a vital component of coming into a right relationship with God.

It's not a nicety, a recommendation or an option. Baptism is a mandate.

It is no less important than belief, repentance or confession. Denying baptism could be equated to sentencing a pris-

Incentives aim to lure Amazon to Winchester

The Winchester Sun

The Kentucky Economic Development Finance Authority approved a proposal Thursday that would give $10.25 million in Kentucky business incentives to a subsidiary of Amazon.com, should it choose to open a $20-million customer support center in Winchester.

To receive the full tax credit from the state, the company, AMZN.wacs Inc, would have to create 550 full-time jobs and 600 part-time and seasonal jobs, said Todd Denham, executive director of the Winchester-Clark County Industrial Authority. The jobs would have an average hourly pay of $20.33 with benefits.

The 70,000-square-foot center, Denham said, would be built on a seven-acre site to be determined.

The agency also approved a $250,000 economic development grant agreement for the project. That money also would be issued to AMZN from the state should it choose to locate in Winchester.

'Military friendly' college lists prompt concerns

By JUSTIN POPE
The Associated Press

In press releases and ads, colleges love boasting they're "military friendly" and "veterans friendly" — and that isn't just because veterans are usually good students and campus leaders.

It's also because the newly expanded Post 9/11 G.I. Bill will pay colleges of all types around $9 billion this year to educate nearly 600,000 veterans, and virtually every school wants to expand its slice of that pie.

But some schools touting their spots on proliferating lists of "military friendly" colleges found in magazine guides and websites have few of the attributes educators commonly associate with the claim, such as accepting military credits or having a veterans organization on campus. Many are for-profit schools with low graduation rates.

The designations appear on rankings whose rigor varies but whose methods are under fire. Often, they're also selling ads to the colleges. Some websites help connect military and veteran students with degree programs that may match their interests, but don't disclose they are lead aggregators paid by the institutions — often for-profit colleges — whose programs they highlight.

"They're not real rankings," said Tom Tarantino, a veteran who is deputy policy director of the advocacy group Iraq and Afghanistan Veterans of America. "What they are is advertisement catalogues."

Labeling them "a huge problem," he called for standards to be established for proper use of the term "military friendly" schools.

There are signs something like that may happen. But as with the U.S. News & World Report college rankings, demand for signaling devices to help consumers shortcut complicated choices could make such lists tough to dislodge. Many experts say the lists are symptoms of a wider problem: Service members aren't getting the advice they need to make sound decisions on using the substantially expanded education benefits. It's no surprise businesses are stepping into that void.

At a large military education conference last month in Florida, some educators criticized the lists and pushed for a sharpened definition of "military friendly" colleges, to be developed either by the federal government or an education coalition called Servicemembers Opportunity Colleges.

Meanwhile, Washington is paying increasing attention to the broader problem of veterans getting reliable guidance. In recent weeks a slew of bills on the subject have surfaced.

The latest, unveiled Tuesday by Sen. Patty Murray, D-Wash., is called the "G.I. Bill Consumer Awareness Act" and would push colleges and the Department of Veterans Affairs to disclose more information on questions like licensing and job placement rates, and to develop policies to prevent misleading marketing.

Home Depot closing Ga. plant

Home Depot is closing its Georgia distribution plant that employs 300 workers near Athens, Ga.

The Atlanta-based home improvement retailer said Friday it's closing the four-year-old Braselton plant by the end of this year. A spokesman said it's because the plant isn't as modern as the company's 18 other distribution centers.

MARKETWATCH

FRIDAY

STOCKS RISE, EXTENDING BEST START SINCE 1998. Rising consumer spending boosted stocks Friday, and Wall Street closed its best first quarter since 1998. For the quarter, the Dow posted an 8 percent gain and the S&P a 12 percent gain, the best for those indexes in 14 years. The gain was 19 percent for the Nasdaq, its best since 1991.

The Commerce Department said consumer spending rose in February at the fastest rate in seven months. Strong hiring over the past three months has added up to the best jobs growth in two years, putting more people back to work.

How to find financing when your business needs money

QUESTION: As a small business owner I would like some advice on the best way to go about looking for financing.

ANSWER: It's no secret that small businesses can have a hard time acquiring financing. So before you approach lenders, make sure you ask yourself: How can I maximize my chances of getting credit approval?

Here are five simple things you can do to up the odds of obtaining a loan.

1. Demonstrate that your business generates steady cash flow. Cash still is king and a key predictor of a business' health and prospects for the future. By demonstrating you have ample and/or steady cash flow, you are ensuring to potential financiers that you have plenty of money to pay creditors, employees and others on time. Make sure to be clear and show your financier what predictable cash flow you have coming in. Demonstrate this by being ready to provide financial statements, tax returns and bank statements. These documents provide the financier with a historical perspective of the performance and liquidity of the business.

Anticipate questions about fluctuations in cash flow: If cash flow dipped because of the recession or the loss of a customer, provide an explanation in advance.

2. Maintain a manageable debt load. Debt load is the amount of debt carried on your balance sheet. You need to be able to demonstrate you not only can handle your current debt load but also the additional debt repayment your proposed financing will cause.

What is Focus on Finance?

Have a question about your finances? Submit it to the our panel of local experts who answer your questions on The News-Enterprise Money page every Sunday.

A panel of local experts with experience and knowledge of the community respond to questions about 401(k)s, 403(b)s, annuities, certificates of deposit, home mortgages and/or refinancing, investing in the stock market, financing retirement, reducing income taxes and related topics. Email questions to: focusonfinance@thenewsenterprise.com or mail to: Melanie Parker, The Wright Legacy Group, LLC, 1104 Julianna Court, Elizabethtown, KY 42701.

If you want to incur the debt for expanding your business, be prepared to demonstrate why the additional debt will be beneficial. For example, show how the added liquidity will be used, and forecast additional revenue derived from the infusion of cash. The use of proceeds from the loan is a critical point of information for the financier.

3. Sustain a positive payment history. One of the most important factors for any financier to weigh is a business' payment history. A financier needs to see that a business has a record of paying down debt, and on time. A financier may have obtained a third-party credit report on your business, such as a Dun & Bradstreet report. Ask to see the report to verify it is accurate. The report may not mention significant trade partners and other lenders who can provide good references, and confirm your good payment history. You can demonstrate this by providing these references. Be sure to include contact information for the person you deal with at your bank, trade supplier, etc.

4. Prove business judgment. Potential lenders want to be assured that you anticipate potential challenges and have a plan in place as to how to address these challenges. Furthermore, lenders also are interested to see that you have the management in place necessary to overcome any obstacles that might come your way. If possible, have a business plan you can show financiers. The business plan should contain a forecast with at least two scenarios: how you expect your business to perform if you don't get approved for financing and how it will perform if you do.

5. Shop around. Don't assume your bank or the vendor will offer the best terms. Compare rates, lease terms, fees and options and use only established financing providers.

Chiara Falduto, a foreign exchange student from Italy, works on homework while her college and career readiness class has study hall Tuesday at Elizabethtown High School.

EXCHANGE: Fast food popular among students

they found education in their native nations more stressful than in the U.S.

Hantaveevongsa, a sophomore from Bangkok, Thailand, found American school to be a more relaxing environment, which he said is because of the competitive nature of Thai schools.

“They study way beyond what they should know,” he said. He’d like to study in the U.S. next year.

Wu said she didn’t understand how to select classes at first, but learned to choose more difficult classes to challenge herself. She appreciates the wide range of extracurricular opportunities offered here.

“We don’t have time to do anything else we want,” Wu said of school in China.

The students’ visit can be educational for others, too. Pardo, a senior from Madrid, Spain, is staying with Alice Wittenback and her family. The family has hosted three foreign exchange students and has become very close to past students, staying in touch with them and their families.

“It’s really opened up a lot of avenues” for the family, Wittenback said. Wittenback has a daughter who considers the foreign exchange students her “brothers,” and she has benefitted from their presence, she said.

“She has learned so much about the rest of the world,” Wittenback said.

Beyond education, the students wanted to see life in America and how it compared to their homes. Several had been to the U.S. before. Butsaparerker, a sophomore from Ubongrathathane, Thailand, visited the U.S. a few years ago.

“I fell in love with America,” she said.

Butsaparerker enjoys the American lifestyle and food, she said. For exchange students at John Hardin, American food means one thing: fast food.

“I gained 18 pounds since I’ve been here,” Butsaparerker said, laughing.

Estudillo is pleased to be in the home of the Kentucky Derby. He has seen a broader diversity of ethnicities and cultures than in Guadalajara. He also has developed a taste for fast food such as McDonald’s and Taco Bell. There are no Taco Bell franchises in Mexico, he said.

“We don’t really need it,” he joked.

Taco Bell has picked up many fans among the exchange students. After naming his host family as what he will miss most when goes home, Pardo also named the fast food chain.

“I will miss Taco Bell,” he said, chuckling.

Ortega, a sophomore from Madrid, said she feels Americans live a “free life.”

“Here, people don’t care what other people do,” she said. She cited wearing pajamas to stores, which she said never would happen in Madrid.

“I used to dress up to go to the grocery store,” she said.

Her schoolmate, Falt-udo, a senior from Legnago, Italy, agreed. In Italy, residents dress nicely even for simple occasions such as visiting a friend.

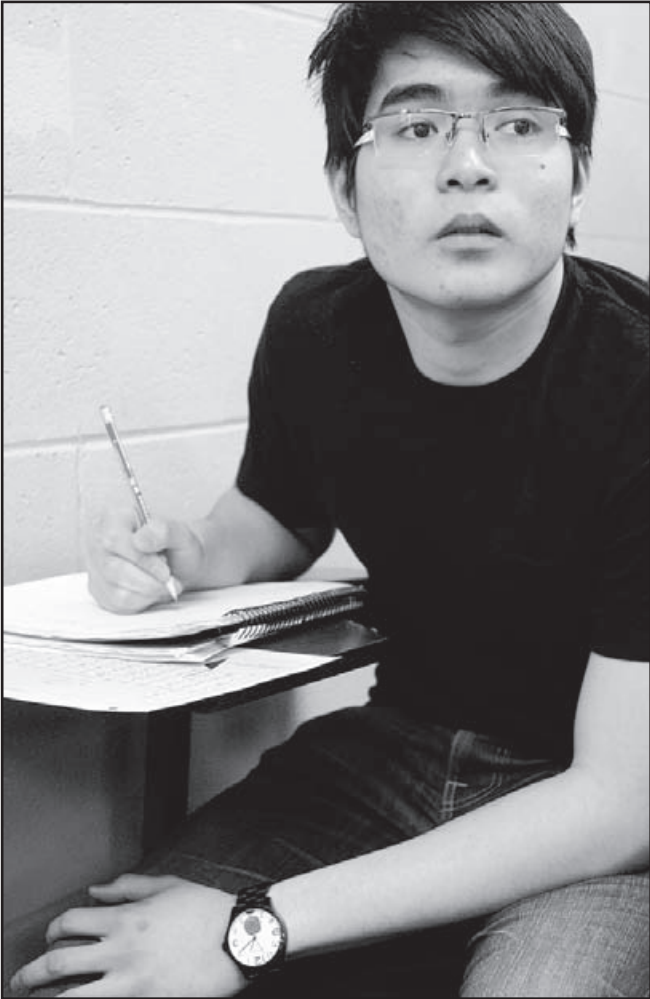

Falduto will miss the experience when she returns home in the summer.

“Just the whole thing of living in America, it’s cool,” she said.

Fellgiebel always wanted to see America, she said, but learned it’s more like her home than she expected.

“They’re just normal, they live just how we are, just in a different way,” she said.

Three winners leave more than 100 million Mega Millions losers

By JIM SUHR
The Associated Press

RED BUD, Ill. — The Mega Millions winners — at least three of them — stayed out of sight. The losers, who could number 100 million, had plenty to say Saturday about losing out on the world's largest-ever lottery jackpot and their dashed dreams of colossal wealth.

Journalists descended on convenience stores in Illinois and Maryland and Kansas lottery officials proudly proclaimed they sold winning tickets in the $640 million world record-breaking Mega Millions jackpot. The winners will earn $213 million before taxes. Three other ticket holders became millionaires.

But on the street, online and outside stores where the winners had purchased tickets, Americans grumbled about hopes that were raised, and then vanished. And they mused about what they would have done with the money.

"What do I do with this useless lottery ticket now?" Laurel Ashton Brooks of Greensboro, N.C., asked.

As the jackpot grew by the hour Thursday and Friday, Americans snapped up tickets while dreaming of quitting jobs, paying off debts, building hospitals, buying islands. Saturday, they took to Twitter and Facebook to bemoan their lost, razor-thin chance at millions.

"I knew that when I bought the ticket, that I wouldn't win. But I did it anyhow," said Sean Flaherty, a video game tester in New York. "The whole notion of 'what if' still has some currency with me."

All told, Americans spent nearly $1.5 billion for a chance to hit the jackpot, which amounts to a $462 million lump sum and around $347 million after federal tax withholding. With the jackpot odds at 1 in 176 million, it would cost $176 million to buy up every combination.

STRICKEN CRUISE SHIP REPAIRED AFTER 24 HOURS ADrift, HEADING TO MALAYSIA FROM PHILIPPINES. A cruise ship with 1,000 people on board that had drifted for 24 hours after being disabled by a fire was headed toward Malaysia following repairs, the Philippine coast guard said Saturday.

The Azamara Quest that had embarked on a 17-day Southeast Asian cruise was left drifting in southern Philippine waters after a fire broke out Friday night. The flames engulfed one of the ship's engine rooms but were quickly extinguished, the ship's operator said. Five crew members suffered smoke inhalation, including one who was seriously injured and needed hospital care.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

the last Saturday of March every year, began as a Sydney-only event in 2007.

Australia was among the first countries to flick off the light switches; in New Zealand, Sky Tower in Auckland and the parliament buildings in Wellington switched off; Tokyo Tower was dimmed and in Hong Kong, buildings also went dark.

The WWF, the environmental group which organizes the event, said the number of countries and territories participating grew from 135 to 147.

AFTER DECADES OF STRUGGLE, MYANMAR'S DEMOCRATIC ICON AUNG SAN SUU KYI POISED FOR PUBLIC OFFICE. Myanmar's former military rulers once despised Aung San Suu Kyi so much they would not speak her name.

They vowed to "annihilate" her pro-democracy movement. They jailed and tortured her supporters. They locked the soft-spoken dissident in her own home for the better part of two decades, declaring her political career over.

But after an era spent trying to silence their most prominent critic, Myanmar's army-backed leaders are on the verge of an extraordinary turnaround — welcoming her into parliament.

Today, tiny villages are expected to help vote the frail, intensely stalwart opposition leader into public office for the first time, raising the prospect she could win the presidency in 2015.

At left is a 2005 booking photo of George Zimmerman provided by the Orange County Jail. At right is an undated but recent photo of Zimmerman taken from the Orlando Sentinel's website showing Zimmerman, according to the paper. Zimmerman, a neighborhood watch volunteer in the town of Sanford, Fla., told police he shot unarmed 17-year-old Trayvon Martin on Feb. 26. The photo of Zimmerman at right is a sharp contrast from the widely used 2005 booking photo from an arrest in Miami Dade County.

This undated family photo shows Trayvon Martin who was slain Feb. 26 in the town of Sanford, Fla. At the time of his death, Trayvon was about 6 feet tall and approximately 140 pounds, the family's attorney said.

Old photos may be deceptive in Trayvon Martin shooting case

By MATT SEDENSKY
The Associated Press

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. — When he was shot, Trayvon Martin was not the baby-faced boy in the photo that has been on front pages across the country. And George Zimmerman wasn't the beefy-looking figure in the widely published mugshot.

Both photos are a few years old and no longer entirely accurate. Yet they may have helped shape initial public perceptions of the deadly shooting.

"When you have such a lopsided visual comparison, it just stands to reason that people would rush to judgment," said Kenny Irby, who teaches visual journalism at the Poynter Institute, a journalism think tank in St. Petersburg, Fla.

The most widely seen picture of Martin, released by his family, was evidently taken a few years ago and shows a smiling, round-cheeked youngster in a red T-shirt. But at his death, Martin was 17 years old, around 6 feet tall and, according to his family's attorney, about 140 pounds.

Zimmerman, 28, is best known from a 7-year-old booking photo of an apparently heavysset figure with an imposing stare, pierced ear and facial hair, the orange collar of his jail uniform visible. The picture, released by police following the deadly shooting, was taken after Zimmerman's 2005 arrest on an assault-on-an-officer charge that was eventually dropped.

In a police video made public this week of Zimmerman being brought in for questioning a half-hour after the shooting, the 5-foot-9 man appears much slimmer.

In a case that has caused a nationwide furor over race and the laws of self-defense, Martin was shot to death by Zimmerman in the city of Sanford on Feb. 26 as the unarmed black teenager was walking back from a convenience store.

Zimmerman, a neighborhood watch volunteer whose father is white and whose mother is Hispanic, has claimed self-defense, saying he opened fire after Martin punched him in the face, knocked him to the ground and began slamming his head on the sidewalk.

Black leaders and others are demanding Zimmerman's arrest on murder or manslaughter charges, but state and federal authorities are investigating.

Betsi Grabe, a professor at Indiana University-Bloomington who has studied the effect of news images on public opinion, said photos that gain the most traction play into the desires of both journalists and the public for a story with a distinct victim and aggressor.

"At the center of most stories we tell in our society, cross-culturally and across the centuries, is the struggle between good and evil," she said. "If the ingredients are there, that is what journalists will grab onto and present."

Grabe said it is natural to present the most innocent-looking image of the person believed to be the victim, and the most menacing one of the suspect.

A more complex portrait of the two figures has emerged since then. A photo of a beaming Zimmerman looking sharp in a jacket and tie has come out, along with a more recent picture of Martin, with gold teeth and a white sleeveless undershirt. At the same time, it was learned Martin had been suspended from school for marijuana residue in his backpack.

The Associated Press has not been able to verify the sources or creators of what are purported to be more recent photographs of Martin circulating online and elsewhere. The family's attorney has not released the photos.

"Everyone's views seem to be gyrating back and forth with each new scrap of evidence that comes out," said David O. Markus, a prominent Miami defense attorney. "This is why we have courts and juries, and why the process is slow. No one should rush to judgment."

Gordon Coonfield, a communications professor at Villanova University in Pennsylvania, said the early perceptions of Zimmerman as a vigilante may ultimately have no bearing on the case.

He cited the case of Rodney King, the black motorist beaten two decades ago by white Los Angeles police officers in an episode captured on video. The officers were acquitted in state court, though two were later found guilty on federal charges.

"I think the nation felt quite certain it saw the truth of what happened to Rodney King, and the DA tried the case as if the images spoke for themselves," Coonfield said. "Yet the state criminal court decided the images were not self-evidently true. The defense won by offering a more convincing explanation of the images, focusing on what could not be seen — officers' motives, reasoning, and judgment."

Associated Press writer Curt

Anderson contributed to this report from Miami.

Protesters march in town where teen was shot

The Associated Press

SANFORD, Fla. — Thousands joined a march Saturday through the Florida town where 17-year-old Trayvon Martin was shot and killed by a neighborhood watch volunteer, vowing to continue protesting until an arrest is made.

Protesters carried signs, chanted "Justice for Trayvon," and clutched the hands of their children while they walked from Crooms Academy of Information Technology — the county's first high school for black students — to the Sanford Police Department. The march, organized by the NAACP, was one of several taking place over the weekend.

"We live in the middle of an American paradox," Rev. Al Sharpton told the crowd. "We can put a black man in the White House but we cannot walk a black child through a gated neighborhood. We are not selling out, bowing out or backing down until there is justice for Trayvon." Martin was shot to death by 28-year-old George Zimmerman on Feb. 26 as he walked from back from a convenience store to his father's fiancée's home in a gated community outside Orlando.

shared tables and appetizers. Sisters Ashley Lawler and Chrystal Full shared cheese fries and nachos at 3 Putt's despite Full's Louisville apparel and Lawler's UK shirt.

They grew to love opposing sides through others — Full's husband is a U of L fan and Lawler has many friends who are UK fans. Full said it's all family fun, but they take their bragging rights seriously.

Lawler has anticipated the game since she learned of the match-up.

"I was super excited," she said.

"And I told her she was going to cry," Full responded.

Both seemed confident in their teams as the game started, but Full said the game is good for the state no matter the outcome.

"It's a win for Kentucky either way," she said.

The fun expanded beyond 3 Putt's before the game started, as a group tailgated on the lawn near the restaurant. It was a mixed affair, with red shirts sprinkled among the blue.

Phil Stivers, a Louisville fan, and Robbie Wise, a Kentucky fan, said they've been having the parties for the past few years, mostly for football. With the warm weather, they knew Saturday's game was a perfect opportunity for another.

"We just get together and have good fellowship before the game," Wise said. He and Stivers agreed it's never become too tense between the rival sides.

"Oh no, we have a great time," Stivers said. "It's all friendly."

In fact, Stivers hoped for a nail-biter, just to ramp up the excitement for both sides.

"I want each fan to enjoy the game all the way through," he said.

tion" about Pine Valley to respond to South Central Bank's motion and asked for time for his co-counsel, Thomas Frentz, to respond.

"In support of his argument, he noted that South Central did not serve the October 10 notice and motion on Mr. Frentz," the reply states. "Mr. Miller's position was surprising, to say the least. Indeed, the reason South Central never noticed Mr. Frentz on the certificate of service was because Mr. Frentz did not notify South Central of his entry of appearance as counsel for Pine Valley."

Pine Valley was given an extension to Nov. 7 to respond to the motion, but no response was listed in court documents.

"Pine Valley's request for an opportunity to respond to South Central's motion, coupled with its failure to respond, speaks for itself," the reply by South Central Bank states. "Moreover, it speaks volumes about Pine Valley's lack of any legitimate defense to South Central's claims against it."

Bill Ridge, co-owner of Pine Valley Country Club with his brothers Jack and Timothy, in November said talks were ongoing with South Central Bank and they were confident a positive conclusion would be reached. Ridge did not return calls Friday.

Pine Valley Preservation

Committee, a group organized to protect Pine Valley Country Club and its golf course, also met in November to discuss the suit and brainstorm about how to save the property. Homeowners have been active in preserving the golf course in the past, rallying to quash a developer's offer to purchase it in 2007. Olympia Homes, which ultimately abandoned the deal, had proposed a housing development to replace the fairways and greens.

During the meeting, the committee and homeowners who live near the golf course advocated for the city to purchase the course should it be sold. But Mayor Tim Walker and members of Elizabethtown City Council said the city is heavily committed to recreational facilities and does not have the resources or desire to manage a municipal golf course.

"As of now, the city is not interested in purchasing the property," Walker said Friday.

Cindy Eagles, president of the preservation committee, said there have been no recent discussions about approaching the city.

"Obviously we're disappointed it's come to this, but we're not surprised by it," she said.

Eagles said the committee is in wait-and-see mode until the court case is resolved or the property is sold.

"Until one occurs, we don't see a lot we can do," she said.

PILLS: Drugs usually handed out, not sold by students

and unaware the teen had taken the medicine.

"This was gathered from somebody who really needed it," Cleary said.

The freshman was arrested and charged with seven counts of first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance, a Class C felony. She is lodged at Lincoln Village Youth Development Center, Cleary said.

Police are investigating two more students on trafficking-related charges, he said. Police believe the teen distributed pills to students, who in turn handed them out to others.

Though money did not change hands, students still can be charged with trafficking in a controlled substance, Cleary said.

"Trafficking is any time you give or sell," he said.

Kentucky law defines "traffic" as "to manufacture, distribute, dispense, sell, transfer or possess with intent to manufacture, distribute, dispense or sell a controlled substance."

Gary French, superintendent of Elizabethtown Independent Schools, said 10 EHS students were involved "in some form or fashion."

The students will be placed at Valley View Education Center, the district's alternative education program, French said. Some will be expelled with services while others will be suspended with services.

"We'll follow policy like we do with all students," French said. "We're not exclusive in this. It can happen anywhere."

Prescription pill distribution in schools is a problem, French said, and he is proud of the students who spoke up as well as the teachers and police who promptly responded to the situation.

"It takes students to stop this in our schools," the superintendent said.

Bobby Lewis, associate superintendent for student services at Hardin County Schools, said the district has found students in possession of pills and some distributing on school property.

"You could probably call every school in the state and they will have seen it," he said.

Lewis said the district's regular drug and alcohol policy is applied to those students. They are suspended for five days with drug counseling or 10 days total. However, a student found dispensing pills could face expulsion, he said.

When a student is found trafficking pills on school grounds, that student usually is handing them out rather than selling, Cleary said.

"Ironically, that's what's going on," he said.

Unfortunately, he said, students eventually become addicted, which is when they start purchasing pills.

In these cases, police can charge for trafficking within 1,000 feet of a school, but EPD opted to charge the EHS student who brought the pills to school with first-degree trafficking in a controlled substance.

"We opted for the higher felony," Cleary said.

If the student was charged in adult court, the difference would be a five to 10-year penalty upon conviction.

Sarah Bennett can be reached at (270) 505-1750.

Search intensifies for runner

By BOB CHRISTIE and TERRY TANG
The Associated Press

Search teams intensified efforts Saturday to find renowned long-distance runner Micah True, who mysteriously vanished four days ago after heading out from a lodge for a morning run in the rugged wilderness near New Mexico's Gila National Forest.

True, 58, whose extreme-distance running prowess is detailed in the book "Born to Run," set out on what — for him — would have been a routine 12-mile run Tuesday from The Wilderness Lodge and Hot Springs, where he was staying. True, who left his dog behind at the lodge, never returned. A search began the next day.

Lodge co-owner Dean Bruemmer, who helped with the search Saturday, said he last saw his friend at breakfast. He said True gave no indication of a specific route.

"That's been part of the big problem with this. He didn't really say where he was going from here. There are a lot of trailheads up the road. We don't know which one he took," said Bruemmer, whose lodge is situated about four miles from the Gila Cliff Dwellings National Monument.

Though daytime temperatures in southwest New Mexico have been mild of late, temperatures have dipped into the mid-20s on recent nights.

FINAL FOUR

KENTUCKY 69 | 61 LOUISVILLE

Best in the Bluegrass

Cats pull away in final minutes to reach title game

By NANCY ARMOUR
AP National Writer

NEW ORLEANS — Bragging rights in the Bluegrass State are mighty nice.

Kentucky has its sights set higher.

Much higher.

Anthony Davis and top-seeded Kentucky are right where they planned to be all along, playing for the national title after finally putting away pesky Louisville, 69-61 in the Final Four on Saturday night.

"I have a team that's had teams come at them all year," coach John Calipari said, "and they responded again today."

It will be Kentucky's first appearance in the title game since winning a seventh NCAA crown back in 1998 and gives Calipari another shot at the title that has eluded him. The Wildcats (37-2) will face Kansas on Monday night.

As the final seconds ticked down, Davis pointed to the court and screamed twice "This is my stage!"

Yes, yes, it is.

With a star-studded roster that includes at least three, maybe as many as five NBA lottery picks, Kentucky was the top seed in the tournament and the heavy favorite to cut down the nets when the whole tournament was done. And Calipari wouldn't let his young players consider anything else, saying repeatedly this was "just another game."

But playing in-state rival Louisville (30-10) is never just that, and the Cardinals made Kentucky work deep into the second half to grind this victory out.

Louisville outrebounded Kentucky, 40-33, including a whopping 19-6 advantage on the offensive glass — the sole reason the Cardinals were able to make a game of this.

"To tell you the truth, I haven't always liked some of the Kentucky teams. I'm not going to lie to you," said Louisville

E'town girls place second

By JOSH CLAYWELL
jclaywell@thenewsenterprise.com

The memory is still seared in Jessica Gabhart's mind.

While leading the 300-meter hurdles at last season's Class 2-A state meet, the Elizabethtown senior tripped over the last hurdle and was disqualified from the race.

During Saturday's Central Hardin Invitational, Gabhart couldn't help but think what if she trips and fails to clear the last hurdle again.

"I just have to get over it," Gabhart said. "I already got past it halfway. The last 200 meters were better today; it's the last 10 meters I still need to work on. I've just got to quit being a sissy."

She didn't have to worry on this day. Gabhart won the event in 50.21 seconds — more than 4 seconds faster than Bowling Green freshman Savannah Hanson — and also won the pole vault to help the Lady Panthers to a runner-up finish.

Gabhart approached the last hurdle with a sense apprehension, but cleared it with no issues.

"My time was about the same as it has been this season," Gabhart said. "On the last hurdle I had a little flash of fear — like a flashback to last year. Besides that, my race improved. It's a step up."

"I know that I've got to be a lot faster if I want to show up at State again," she added. "I've got to improve my time by 5 seconds if I want to beat my record."

Freshman Darien Huff won the long jump and Elizabethtown had three top-three relay finishes as it placed second behind Bowling Green with 101.50 points.

Sophomore Hannah Godfrey was third in the 1,600 run, freshman Whitney Danbury took third in the pole vault and seventh-grader Claire Ratliff was third in the triple jump.

Junior Regine Johnson-Stateman won the 200 dash, was second in the 100 dash and also ran the first leg on the winning 400 and 800 relays as John Hardin finished third with 73 points.

"I want to win lots more medals this year. That's my goal," Johnson-Stateman said. "Hopefully I'll keep getting my times down as the season goes along."

Kansas rallies in second half to top Ohio State

By EDDIE PELLIS
AP National Writer

NEW ORLEANS — Same story, new night for Kansas. The team that's been teetering on the edge of the tournament since before it even began is now one of the last two left.

Tyshawn Taylor made two big free throws late, and Thomas Robinson finished with 19 points and eight rebounds Saturday night to lift the Jayhawks to a come-from-behind 64-62 win over Ohio State in the Final Four — a game Kansas led for a grand total of 3 minutes, 48 seconds.

After scoring the first bucket, Kansas didn't lead again until Travis Releford made two free throws with 2:48 left. That lasted for 11 seconds, but the Jayhawks (32-6), who trailed by as many as 13, overcame another deficit and finally held on against the Buckeyes (31-8).

Taylor's two free throws with 8.3 seconds left gave Kansas a 64-61 lead, matching its biggest of the game. The Jayhawks intentionally fouled Aaron Craft with 2.9 seconds left. Craft made the first, then quickly clanked the second one of the front of the rim but was called for a lane violation.

Kansas dribbled out the clock and celebrated a win that played out sort of the way the whole season has in Lawrence.

Early in the year, coach Bill

Self wondered if this team was even tournament material. The Jayhawks trailed most of the night against Purdue in the regional semifinals and were no better than North Carolina for most of the next game.

One win. Then another. This latest one came on the biggest stage — in the Superdome. Next, a meeting Monday with Kentucky and a chance to bring the second title in five years back to Allen Fieldhouse.

Reds like chances of another NL Central title

By JOE KAY
AP Sports Writer

CINCINNATI — Cincinnati Reds manager Dusty Baker sat back in his chair at the start of spring training in Arizona and considered that it's his final season under contract.

Worried? No. How a manager does usually comes down to the depth of talent on his roster. And Baker likes what he has to work with this time around.

"It boils down to the more talent you have, the better your chances are," Baker said. "I genuinely like this team."

The Reds have done a philosophical about-face. After winning the NL Central in 2010, they kept the roster virtually intact to make a run at another title. Instead, they fell to third place. That prompted a much different approach this past off-season. They changed closers and added a setup man. They traded some of their best young players for a starting pitcher.

No staying pat in 2012. This is a team that thinks it has a legitimate chance to win a second NL Central title in three seasons.

They know there's a lot riding on this year.

"I'm excited about this season," said outfielder Jay Bruce, whose game-ending home run secured Cincinnati's title in 2010. "Right now it's all just on paper, and we're getting used to playing together. But if we stay healthy, we can do some really special things.

"We've improved our bullpen. We've improved our starting pitching. Management has brought in some options for the bench," he added. "We have a chance to improve in every aspect."

There's a lot to like.

The Reds have one of the best groups of young players in the division, built around Bruce, 2010 MVP Joey Votto and outfielder Drew Stubbs. The offense is never an issue — they score enough runs to be a contender every year.

Take Charge Indy pulls off Florida Derby upset

By TIM REYNOLDS
AP Sports Writer

HALLANDALE BEACH, Fla. — Calvin Borel and Patrick Byrne had the same thought entering the Florida Derby. If Take Charge Indy could get out in front with a lead, good things were going to happen.

How right they were. Take Charge Indy earned his chance at the Kentucky Derby on Saturday, winning the $1 million Grade 1 Florida Derby at a speed-favoring Gulfstream Park — and knocking off consensus Triple Crown favorite Union Rags to get there. Borel and Take Charge Indy led nearly every step of the way, holding off long-shot Reveron to win what traditionally is one of the top prep races entering the Run for the Roses.

“I’m still in shock over winning the race,” owner Chuck Sandford said. “We knew we had a nice, top-bred colt who just screams ‘racehorse.’ But someday, he’s just got to get out and do it.” That day was Saturday. Sent off at nearly 8-1 odds, Take Charge Indy went to the front right away, saved space with Borel — remember, he’s not called “Bo-Rail” for nothing — keeping the colt close to the inside, and had more than enough to hold off a field of seven challengers in the stretch.

Borel has been aboard three of the last five Kentucky Derby winners. He sees no reason why he can’t go 4-for-6.

“It’s not how far he’ll go,” Borel said. “It’s how fast he can go, and just keep going. I think he can go a lot faster than this.”

Take Charge Indy finished the 1 1/8 miles in 1:48.79, returning $17.40, $9 and $3.60. Reveron paid $18.40 and $4, while Union Rags — the 2-5 favorite, who was down to 1-9 on the toteboards not long before post time — paid $2.10.

“Just bad luck. ... Nobody paid attention to the winner, they just let him go,” said Julien Leparoux, Union Rags’ jockey. “I guess they just target the favorite.”

Union Rags reared up after his van ride to Gulfstream on Saturday, then had a shoe issue in the paddock just before heading onto the track. Trainer Michael Matz said that didn’t affect his horse’s showing.

And while Union Rags likely took a blow to his status as Triple Crown favorite, Matz — who won both the Florida Derby and Kentucky Derby with Barbaro in 2006 — still is hopeful he has a horse that can be at its best when it gets to Churchill Downs.

“If he comes out well out of this race, we’ll be at the Derby,” Matz said.

Union Rags had won four of his five career starts coming in, a defeat by a head in the Breeders’ Cup Juvenile the only blemish on his record before now. Meanwhile, Take Charge Indy had just one career win before Saturday, and that was in a $23,000 maiden race last July.

Still, his connections had plenty of confidence. Take Charge Indy had already raced in three graded stakes — two of them Grade 1’s — and finished second to El Padrino when Borel got his first shot aboard the colt at Gulfstream in an allowance race Jan. 29.

“We knew he liked the race-track,” Byrne said. “We’re not surprised.” Sandford, who got into the horse game as an owner a little over two years ago, already had reservations for his family to be at this year’s Kentucky Derby, the only question entering Saturday being if Take Charge Indy would join them.

Asked and answered. “Calvin has been the perfect answer,” Sandford said.

El Padrino, Neck ‘n Neck, Fort Loudon, News Pending and Z Camelot completed the eight finishers. Bartolome was scratched Saturday morning because of a bruised foot.

The Florida Derby was one of six graded stakes races on Saturday’s card.

Heavily favored Grace Hall ($4.40) won the Grade 2 Gulfstream Oaks, taking off at the top of the stretch and being ridden out to prevail by 5-1/2 lengths. Awesome Maria ($2.20) won the Grade 3 Rampart, Fort Larned ($26.20) took the Grade 3 Skip Away, Corporate Jungle ($6) won the Grade 3 Appleton and Hit It Rich ($7.40) won the Grade 3 Orchid Stakes.

Sjodin grabs lead at Nabisco

The Associated Press

Sweden’s Karin Sjodin shot a steady 4-under 68 through heavy wind while chasing down top-ranked Yani Tseng on Saturday, pulling even at 9 under heading into the final round of the Kraft Nabisco Championship.

The dominant Tseng, coming off consecutive victories at Phoenix and La Costa and a three-time winner in five events this year, showed visible frustration while posting a 71 as inconsistent as the wind that buffeted Mission Hills throughout her round.

While Tseng is a five-time major champion, the long-hitting Sjodin is winless in seven seasons on the LPGA Tour. Yet Sjodin made just one bogey in a remarkable round, briefly taking the late outright lead.

Haeji Kang was two strokes back after struggling to a 72.

Na Yeon Choi had a 71 to top a five-player group at 6 under.

HOUSTON OPEN. Louis Oosthuizen shot his second straight 6-under 66 to reach 17 under and take a two-shot lead over Hunter Mahan after the third round of the Houston Open.

The 29-year-old South African shook off two early bogeys with four straight birdies on a sunny, windy afternoon at Redstone. Mahan had a 65, rebounding from a bogey on No. 9 with four birdies on the back nine.

Carl Pettersson (67) and Brian Davis (69) were three strokes back at 14 under. James Driscoll (71) was alone at 12 under. Defending champion Phil Mickelson was in a group at 11 under after a 70.

Three-time major champion Ernie Els, who must win to qualify for the Masters next week, was in a group at 8 under. Els hasn’t missed the Masters since 1993 and knew that his chances of winning Sunday are remote.

SICILIAN OPEN. Denmark’s Thorbjorn Olesen shot a 5-under 67 to take a three-stroke lead after the third round of the European Tour’s Sicilian Open.

Olesen was 12 under on the Verdura course. Canada’s Andrew Parr (67) and Belgium’s Nicolas Colsaerts were tied for second.

Monterosso wins $10 million World Cup in Dubai

By MICHAEL CASEY
AP Sports Writer

DUBAI, United Arab Emirates — Monterosso won the $10 million Dubai World Cup, the world’s richest horse race Saturday, to give Dubai’s ruler an emotional victory after one of his horses was euthanized following a fall in an earlier race.

The outcome provided a big boost for Sheik Mohammed bin Rashid al Maktoum’s stables, which had not won this showcase since 2006.

“I feel over the moon,” Sheik Mohamed said. “We haven’t won this race for many years. It was a pleasant surprise really. We had as good of a chance as anyone but we are at home and training here. I’m very happy we won after so many years.”

The normally restrained Sheik Mohammed pumped his fist, danced and hugged those next to him. The crowd of Emiratis cheered and waved UAE flags.

“This is like football. You don’t want someone from outside to beat you. It’s the same feeling,” Monterosso trainer Mahmoud al-Zarooni said. “I’m very happy I won in my country.

I’m happy for all the UAE people who were waiting five years for Godolphin to win the World Cup.”

Monterosso, who finished third last year, was ridden by Mickael Barzalona and timed for the 1 1/4 miles in 2:02.67. The 5-year-old British horse went off at 20-1 odds and beat Capponi by three lengths to give Godolphin Stables a 1-2 finish. Planteur, ridden by three-time British champion jockey Ryan Moore, was another half-length behind.

Hall of Fame trainer Bob Baffert, recovering after a heart attack in Dubai on Monday, entered Game On Dude and was able to put the 12th-place finish in perspective. His other horse, The Factor, finished sixth in the $2 million Dubai Golden Shaheen.

“Tough day but so happy to be outdoors again enjoying the sport I love,” Baffert tweeted.

Game On Dude’s jockey was Chantal Sutherland, the first woman to ride in this race. She said her horse struggled in the gate, and she blamed the all-weather surface for the poor performance.

NFL

Payton, the Saints and GM appeal league suspensions

By BRETT MARTEL
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS — New Orleans Saints coach Sean Payton is appealing his season-long suspension from the NFL for his role in New Orleans’ bounty system. And he’s not the only one looking for a little relief from the penalties handed down by commissioner Roger Goodell.

General manager Mickey Loomis, assistant coach Joe Vitt and the Saints organization each decided to appeal Friday.

Payton will also ask Goodell for guidance on the parameters of the suspension, which runs through next year’s Super Bowl, a person familiar with the situation told The Associated Press, speaking on condition of anonymity because the league and the Saints did not announce Payton’s plan to appeal.

Saints spokesman Greg Bensel did confirm that Loomis was appealing his eight-game suspension and, separately, the team would challenge its $500,000 fine and loss of second-round draft picks this year and in 2013.

Vitt, suspended for six games, is doing the same. David Cornwell, representing Vitt as head of the NFL Coaches Association, confirmed the decision in an email to the AP.

Goodell last week announced the suspension of Payton, starting today, for his role in connection with New Orleans’ bounty system, which offered improper cash bonuses for big hits that either knocked opponents out of games or left them needing help off of the field.

Former defensive coordinator Gregg Williams, who left the Saints after last season to join the St. Louis Rams, ran the bounty program and has been suspended indefinitely.

The commissioner has said since the unprecedented penalties were announced that the Saints’ coach would likely be allowed to continue working as his appeal was resolved. However, he added that the challenge would be expedited, indicating that Payton would not likely be able to add on much work time should his appeal be upheld.

Goodell also said at the NFL owners meetings this week in Florida that Payton could have some contact with the team but did not go into detail, and Payton indicated that he was still a little unclear about that, as well.

With all the uncertainty, Payton is trying to compress as much planning for the 2012 season into whatever time he has left at Saints headquarters this weekend.

The NFL could not immediately provide details on how Payton’s decision to file an appeal on Friday would affect the timeline for the process to play out.

“The decision to appeal is for Sean Payton to make and announce as he deems appropriate,” NFL spokesman Greg Aiello said. “If there are appeals, the commissioner will arrange for expedited hearings, as he stated at the league meeting.”

REDS: Pitching holds key this year

The rotation let them down last season, when injuries and illness were a major issue.

Right-hander Johnny Cueto developed a sore shoulder during spring training. So did right-hander Homer Bailey. And right-hander Bronson Arroyo came down with mononucleosis that left him even thinner than usual and tired well into the season.

With the constant changes in the rotation because of injury, the club never got on a good, long streak.

General manager Walt Jocketty decided the Reds needed another top-of-the-rotation starter, and got Mat Latos from San Diego for a package of players that included two former first-round draft picks and starter Edinson Volquez.

With Arroyo fully recovered from his mono and his bad season — a club-record 46 homers allowed — the rotation seems solid.

“I think we’re in a better position because there is not as much riffraff — meaning, we don’t have 10 guys competing for five spots,” Arroyo said. “We’re pretty solid with six, maybe seven guys.”

The bullpen had the biggest makeover. Closer Francisco Cordero left as a free agent, so Jocketty signed former Philadelphia Phillies closer Ryan Madson, who was 32-of-34 in save chances last season. He traded with the Chicago Cubs for Sean Marshall, a left-handed setup man who had a 2.26 ERA last season.

Jocketty also restocked his bench, which was thin at times last season. Baker’s toughest job during spring training was figuring out who to keep.

“We have a lot of options for the bench,” Baker said. “They’re a very important position on this team. These final cuts are usually the toughest. It’s definitely tougher on a good team. If it’s a bad team, you don’t have this many options.”

The biggest questions are the left side of the infield and the sharing arrangement at catcher.

Zack Cozart impressed during an 11-game stint as a rookie that ended when he tore his non-throwing elbow and needed reconstructive surgery. He also had his right ankle cleaned out. He’ll get to start as long as he’s healthy and isn’t overwhelmed by the promotion to everyday player.

Third baseman Scott Rolen turns 37 on Wednesday and is coming off surgery on his non-throwing shoulder, which limited him to 65 games last season. If he’s healthy, it’ll be a huge boost for a team that looks to him for leadership.

The Reds allowed catcher Ramon Hernandez to leave as a free agent. They’re replacing him with the tandem of Ryan Hanigan and 23-year-old Devin Mesoraco, a first-round pick in June 2007 who is known for his hitting.

“Mesoraco has been concentrating more on catching,” Baker said. “Their No.

1 job is to catch, to put the right fingers down, to block balls in the dirt, to throw runners out and to be my general on the field.”

The returning players like the way the front office has been aggressive about improving every part of the team.

“The front office did a tremendous job,” Votto said. “It seems to be a trend. We took a lot of chances, but we’ve got a pretty good return. I’m very happy about it.”

The Milwaukee Brewers and St. Louis Cardinals lost sluggers Prince Fielder and Albert Pujols as free agents in the offseason, which also would seem to improve Cincinnati’s chances.

“I don’t care about that,” Votto said. “I think we have enough.”

Kentucky's defense comes up big against Louisville

By JIM O'CONNELL
AP Basketball Writer

NEW ORLEANS — The highlight packages will be full of Anthony Davis' one-handed jam off an alley-oop pass and a couple of his hook shots — including one with his non-shooting hand — but what got Kentucky to its 11th national championship game was defense.

A lot of defense.

The Wildcats didn't break the 80-point mark as they did in their first four NCAA Tournament games — the first team to do that since Kentucky won its last title in 1998 — but they stopped Louisville whenever they had to in their 69-61 victory Saturday night.

Kentucky (37-2) held the Cardinals to 34.8 percent shooting (24-for-69), well below their season mark of 42.5, but even more importantly, it was below the 37.5 percent the Wildcats allowed all season — a mark that led the nation.

And it was Davis, the 6-foot-10 freshman who was named the national Player of the Year, leading the way with five of Kentucky's seven blocked shots while altering several others as he did all season in being named the Southeastern Conference Defensive Player of the Year.

The defense was at its best late after Louisville (30-10) had whittled a 13-point deficit to 53-51 with 7:34 to play. The Cardinals missed their next nine shots as Kentucky opened the lead to 60-51 with 4:29 to go.

"We had teams come at us all year like that," Kentucky coach John Calipari said. "They responded each time the way they did today."

Despite being outrebounded 40-33, including 19-6 on the offensive end, Kentucky played the defense that had it at No. 1 for 10 weeks this season and earned the Wildcats the overall No. 1 seed in the tournament.

Louisville's Wayne Blackshear slam the ball over Kentucky forwards Michael Kidd-Gilchrist and Terrence Jones during the second half Saturday in New Orleans.

And it was Davis leading the way — and he earned the highest praise a center can receive.

"When you're playing against Bill Russell at the pro level, you realize why the Celtics won 11 world championships," Louisville coach Rick Pitino said in comparing Davis to the Boston Celtics great who is considered the best defensive big man of all time. "When you see this young man at the collegiate level, you realize why they're so good. Not that their other players aren't, but he's so much of a factor."

Calipari made it sound like just another game from his phenom, who is expected to be the overall No. 1 pick in the NBA draft if he decides to leave after his freshman season.

"He did what he's done all year," Calipari said. "He blocked four, five shots. The greatest thing, though, is that his teammates make him better and he makes his teammates better. That's how he's been."

Davis came into the Final Four with a school-record 175 blocks, a number that already has him fifth on Kentucky's career list.

It took the Cardinals and Gorgui Dieng, their young center, a while to adjust to what Davis was doing on the defensive end.

"Anthony Davis is very impressive because he alters. His length is incredible," Pitino said. "Not till the end did Gorgui block him out. That's what you've got to do with him, you've got to block him out to keep him away from the basket."

Davis' aggressive way inside was what allowed Louisville to get offensive rebounds, but the Cardinals weren't able to convert into more than 13 second-chance points.

"You can get second-chance opportunities against shot blockers because when he goes, he's going to leave his man," Pitino said. "But then you have to either throw it out and get an easy shot or you have to finish. We didn't finish inside. We kept missing inside. Sometimes when you go against a shot-blocker, there's a lot of offensive opportunities to rebound."

CATS: hold off Cards to reach title game

coach Rick Pitino, who counts as something of an expert after spending eight years in Lexington and the last 11 with the Cardinals. "But I really like this team a lot because of their attitude and the way they play.

"I'll certainly be rooting for them hard to bring the trophy back to Kentucky. ... They're a great group of guys, doing a tremendous job."

So tremendous it led to a thawing, however briefly, in the frosty relationship between Calipari and Pitino. When the two shook hands after the game, Pitino congratulated Calipari and told him he'd be rooting for the Wildcats on Monday night.

"I think that's neat," Calipari said. "When I was at UMass, I can remember hugging him and telling him, 'I'm happy for you and I really want you to win the national title.' He did the same to me tonight, so I think it's kind of neat."

Calipari had taken another phenom-laden roster to the Final Four last year, only to see them come unglued against eventual national champion Connecticut. The Wildcats said all week they weren't going to let the same thing happen this time, and it showed in their workmanlike effort. No matter how close Louisville got, the Cardinals were never able to control the game. When they made a run, Kentucky found a way to stop it. When one of the Wildcats ran into foul trouble, the others picked him up.

Kentucky played so hard Davis went flying off the court twice, sailing all the way onto media row once.

"They made runs, and we made our runs. That's what Coach always says," said Terrence Jones, who finished with six points and seven rebounds. "We never get rattled."

Bigger, bulkier and with Davis having a wider wingspan than some small airplanes, the Wildcats looked like playground bullies as they pushed Louisville around on their way to a 13-point lead early in the second half. But the Cardinals know a thing about rallies after coming from 11 points down to beat Florida in last weekend's West Regional final, and they sure made Kentucky sweat.

Russ Smith made back-to-back buckets to start a 15-3 run, and Peyton Siva capped it with a 3-pointer from NBA range that tied the game at 49 with 9:11 to play. But Michael Kidd-Gilchrist, who played just 23 minutes because of foul trouble, made back-to-back buckets to give the Wildcats some breathing room.

After Siva made a pair of free throws, Jones scored on a jumper and Darius Miller drilled a 3 — only Kentucky's second of the game — to give the Wildcats control for good.

"They were the better team today," Siva said.

Just to make sure Louisville didn't get any wild notions about another late comeback, Kidd-Gilchrist threw down a monstrous dunk with 1:05 to play that had Kentucky fans on their feet and assistant coaches from Kansas scrambling to try and find a way to stop this juggernaut.

Kentucky shot a dazzling 57 percent — yes, that's right — with Davis leading the way. He missed just one of his eight shots and finished with 18 points and 14 rebounds, and let his play speak for itself, not showing any emotion until those closing seconds of the game.

"Anthony Davis is just the No. 1 player in the draft," Pitino said of the 19-year-old freshman, who has won just about every Player of the Year award there is. "When you're playing against Bill Russell on the pro level, you realize why the Celtics won 11 world championships."

Miller added 13 points, and Doron Lamb had 10. Kidd-Gilchrist had nine, all in the second half.

Siva led the Cardinals with 11 points, and Gorgui Dieng had 12 rebounds.

"I told the guys, 'Look, I'm going to Miami tomorrow and celebrating a season where we worked around the clock, around injuries and everything else. If you guys don't celebrate and have good, clean fun, you're fools,'" Pitino said.

The Kentucky-Louisville rivalry causes tempers to flare even in December when, in the grand scheme of things, games really don't mean much. Heck, it took government intervention just to get the two schools to play on a regular basis back in the 1980s.

With the NCAA title game on the line, the latest skirmish in basketball's version of the civil war so divided the small hoop-crazed state that senior citizens actually came to fisticuffs. But boy, did it make for a great show. The game was such a big deal that No. 1 Kentucky fan Ashley Judd wasn't even the biggest celeb in the house, with Jay-Z taking a prime seat behind the Kentucky bench.

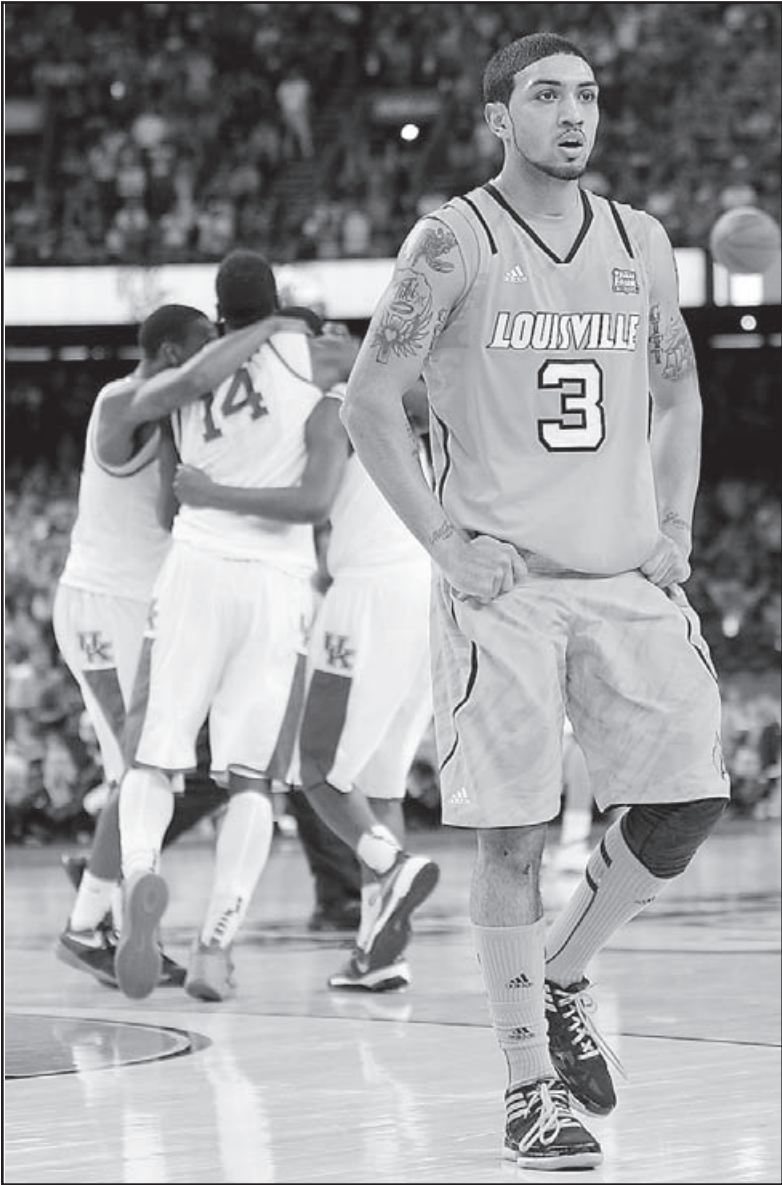

"It's our fans; our fans are great to us," Davis said. "Our fans travel a long way. We want to go out here and give them a show and give them what they want, which is a national championship."

The ultimate bragging rights sure are a nice way to start.

Kentucky is 19-11 since the teams resumed playing in 1983-84, with the Wildcats winning four straight, including a 69-62 victory at Rupp Arena on Dec. 31 — almost the exact score as Saturday night's win.

The Wildcats know they're talented — there are three, maybe as many as five NBA lottery picks on the Kentucky roster — but they play without ego or cockiness, choosing instead to let their superior play overwhelm their opponents.

The Cardinals had skidded into the Big East Tournament

Louisville guard Peyton Siva walks off the court as Kentucky celebrates after beating Louisville in the NCAA Final Four on Saturday in New Orleans.

with four losses in their last six games, including back-to-back defeats to end the regular season. Pitino told his players they could either go home after the first week of the tournament or they could do something special — their choice.

The Cardinals chose the latter, ripping off four wins in four days to win the Big East Tournament and ousting No. 1 seed Michigan State in the West Regional semifinals. Then came that comeback against rough-and-tumble Florida.

Those games hardened the Cardinals, and they promised they weren't simply happy to reach the Final Four. But they sure looked it early on, getting off to a slow, sloppy start. It didn't help that Dieng looked petrified of Davis and Siva was playing at hyperspeed, a pace Pitino has been trying to get him to tone down all year.

When they tried to go inside, Davis was less forgiving than a bouncer at a Hollywood club. When the Cardinals went outside, the Wildcats swarmed and forced them to take off-balance shots. Meanwhile, on the other end, Kentucky scored at will, repeatedly picking on Siva and Dieng.

But there's a reason Pitino has taken three teams to the Final Four. He pulled out every trick he had, switching strategies, begging the refs for calls and finding a way — finally — to calm his team down.

"Any time you don't know whether a team is better offensively or defensively, you know you've got a great basketball team," Pitino said. "And Anthony Davis is incredible."

Lady Bruins rally for pair of victories

The News-Enterprise

The 10th-ranked Central Hardin Lady Bruins fell behind in the first inning in both of their games Saturday in Allen County-Scottsville's Halton Classic but rallied to win both, earning a 6-1 win in six innings against East Robertson (Tenn.) before rallying for a 6-5 win in six innings against Louisville Sacred Heart in their last game.

■ Against East Robertson, sophomore April Pence (5-2) settled down after giving up a lead-off home run, striking out six, walking two and scattering three singles the rest of the way.

Freshman Kelsey McGuffin doubled, singled and scored, while eighth-grader Mariah Bryant doubled and drove in one. Junior Baylee Sullivan singled, stole a base, scored and had one RBI.

■ Against Sacred Heart, senior Wesley Edwards went 2-for-4 and had the game-winning RBI. Pence went 2-for-4 and scored twice and earned the win in relief after taking over in the second inning.

Sullivan and Bryant both doubled and scored, Goedde went 2-for-4 and scored and McGuffin went 2-for-3 with a triple, scored and drove in three.

Wilson sparks Meade to 13-0 win over John Hardin

The News-Enterprise

Senior Bo Wilson was two outs away from a perfect game Saturday and three Meade County players combined to go 12-for-15 at the plate as the visiting Green Wave cruised past the John Hardin Bulldogs, 13-0.

Wilson (2-1) struck out 11 and didn't allow a hit until giving up three consecutive singles to junior Zach Miller, sophomore Dale Gumm and senior Brandon Arel with one out in the bottom of the seventh. Wilson helped himself with two singles.

Seniors Garrett Ledford and Brady Smith and junior Zach Kullman each went 4-for-5 for Meade County (6-2). Smith doubled and drove in three, while Ledford had two doubles and three RBIs and Kullman had one RBI.

Senior Daniel Kaiser also had one of the Green Wave's four doubles, while junior Derek Bruner had three hits and four RBIs.

Wiley took second in the long jump, while sophomore Brittany Kaatz was second in the triple jump.

Behind junior Alisha Durbin's two top-five individual finishes and senior Shana Zajdel's win in the triple jump, LaRue County was sixth with 55.50 points.

Durbin took second in the 100 hurdles and was fifth in the 300s. Durbin teamed with junior Amarah Reed and freshmen Courtnei Price and Mariah Wiseman to take third in the 1,600 relay.

Sophomore Misha Jakes was fourth in the high jump and junior Sheridan Myers was fifth in the discus.

Central Hardin was seventh with 51 points as sophomores Abbie Chandler and Michaela Lieb, juniors Alneisha Butler and Nathalie Fuster each had top-five performances.

Chandler and Lieb were third and fourth in the 3,200 run. Butler was fifth in the 100 hurdles and the long jump and Fuster was fourth in the triple jump.

Chandler, junior Michelle Navarro, sophomore Mackenzie Pennington and eighth-grader Tori Briggs were second in the 3,200 relay.

Meade County finished 11th with 35 points. Junior Maya Luney finished second in the shot put, senior LeAnna Luney took third in the high jump and sophomore Shonte Williams was third in the long jump.

BOYS

Two of his races Saturday – the 100 and 200 dashes – came down to the wire against North Bullitt senior Cody Hodge.

Hodge edged Keys by .01 seconds in the 100 dash, but Keys returned the favor in the 200 – picking up the win as he stretched across the finish line.

"I was more surprised with the 200 than the 100," Keys said. "I barely got him last time in the 100 and I knew he runs the 200 better than I do. I was a little surprised I pulled it out at the end."

Keys also took second in the 400 dash to help lead the Bruins to 82 points and a runner-up to Bowling Green.

Junior Michael Price finished second in the 3,200 run, senior Malon Kennedy was third in both hurdle events, junior T.J. Gordon took fourth in the triple jump and freshman Brandt Martin was fourth in the 800 run.

John Hardin junior Eric Avant won the 300 hurdles in 42.08 seconds – just 0.34 seconds in front of Green County senior Cody Houchens – and was second in the triple jump as the Bulldogs finished third.

COLLEGE HOOPS

Ex-Illini coach Weber hired to replace Martin at Kansas State

By DAVE SKRETTA
AP Sports Writer

Bruce Weber knows that Kansas State fans may not accept him right away. That much became clear when a small rally for another coaching candidate turned into a protest of his hiring.

The former Illinois coach doesn't have a problem with that, though.

Weber is up for any challenge that's presented to him.

The former Illinois coach was hired by Kansas State on Saturday to replace Frank Martin, whose departure for South Carolina earlier in the week sent shockwaves through the program. The school moved quickly on the hiring, reaching out to Weber in the last few days and finalizing a deal late Friday.

Weber agreed to a five-year, $8.5 million contract that will pay him $1.5 million next season and an additional $100,000 each remaining year. There are also several benefits.

"It's been a whirlwind, to be honest. Just a few hours ago I was in New Orleans thinking I was going to have gumbo," said Weber, who was attending the Final Four before hopping on a plane with Kansas State athletic director John Currie and heading to Kansas on Saturday.

"We wanted a coach who recognized the tremendous opportunity that exists here at Kansas State," Currie said. "Bruce Weber's name repeatedly rose to the top of the list, whose personal values and integrity matched those of K-State."

Weber was greeted at Bramlage Coliseum by a small group of fans who had been planning to support another candidate, and who were displeased with the hiring of a coach recently fired by Illinois.

Weber was let go after compiling 210-101 record over nine seasons, which included six trips to the NCAA Tournament and a national runner-up finish in 2005. The Illini went 17-15 and 6-12 in the Big Ten this season, prompting the administration to let Weber go with three years left on his contract.

"I'll be honest: We had a young team, six freshmen, one returning starter," Weber said. "The disappointment of a lot of close losses took a toll. It happens."

Weber takes over for Martin, who returned a once-proud program to national prominence after Bob Huggins' departure for West Virginia five years ago. Weber will be the fourth coach to lead Kansas State in the past eight seasons – and the third to cause some consternation among fans.

Huggins was hired still carrying baggage from his messy divorce with Cincinnati, while Martin was a nondescript assistant who had never been a college head coach.

Weber certainly has experience running a program. It's just that not all of it has been good.

He was considered one of the rising stars of the profession after taking Southern Illinois to a pair of NCAA Tournament appearances, one of which ended in the regional semifinals. He then took over a program at Illinois that had been built into a perennial contender under Bill Self – now the coach at Kansas, just down the Interstate from Manhattan, Kan., and the Wildcats' biggest rival.

The Jayhawks played Ohio State in the Final Four on Saturday, just hours after officials at Kansas State were to announce Weber's hiring.

Weber had immediate success at Illinois with players largely recruited by Self, returning to the NCAA Tournament his first four seasons. That included a 37-2 record during the 2004-05 season, which ended with a 75-70 loss to North Carolina in the national championship game.

AUTO RACING

Vickers on the comeback trail

By HANK KURZ Jr.
AP Sports Writer

MARTINSVILLE, Va. — Brian Vickers' latest comeback got off to a roaring start two weeks ago with a fifth-place finish at Bristol for Michael Waltrip Racing.

The driver who admitted to having wondered more than once if he was viewed as "damaged goods" hopes to keep his comeback on track when he returns today to the scene of one of his worst days in racing: Martinsville Speedway.

Last fall, Vickers was involved in five cautions on the small, paperclip-shaped oval, three in the first 100 laps. He tangled with Matt Kenseth, Juan Pablo Montoya and Jamie McMurray, and was criticized by former teammate Jimmie Johnson afterward.

Vickers, though, has plenty of practice on the comeback trail, and bigger issues than a few ticked off competitors. He missed 25 races in 2010 while battling blood clots, and lost his ride with Red Bull Racing when it closed down after last season.

"Yeah, which time did I think that?" he said about worrying if he was damaged goods. "That conversation — I have had with myself many times over the last couple of years, whether it was

I found out Red Bull was shutting down or towards the end of last year trying to keep it going or through the off-season talking to other teams or when I was laying in hospital bed two years ago."

Looking ahead, he realized, is the best way to approach his opportunity with MWR, which initially gave his six races to run this year in a shared ride with Mark Martin, and added the two road courses to Vickers' slate after his good showing last weekend.

While the good run felt validating to Vickers, he knows he needs to keep showing what he can do to have hope of securing a full time job next season, although Waltrip seemed to hint that that opportunity could eventually be with MWR.

"Keep chipping away. Keep going, young man," he said, "and who knows, you might have them all one day."

Vickers understands. "It's part of any pro sport. It's what have you done for me lately? What are your results lately? And these eight races are very important to me," he said. "Obviously, when you only have eight shots at it, you better make them count."

That the second one comes on NASCAR's oldest, shortest oval is intriguing, to say the least.

In the fall race last year, Kenseth was still second in the championship chase when he and Vickers tangled, and near the end of the race, Vickers wrecked Kenseth, taking him out of title contention. He also likely cost Johnson a chance at winning the race.

Kenseth said he brings no grudge into today's race, which he'll start 21st. Vickers will be sixth.

"I think if you're sitting there worrying about that stuff and thinking about it, you're certainly not giving your best effort to try and get the best finish that you can, so I think that's all water under the bridge and you move forward from there," he said.

And Johnson, too, is over it, and rooting for Vickers to keep his resurgence going.

By tonight, Vickers hopes his comeback is still a hot topic of conversation, and his mistakes of last year are not.

"My goal this year is for that to go away — for that to become a non-issue — and that's what Bristol was for me and I can't thank Michael enough for that opportunity," he said. "My goal this weekend is to make it disappear again, so that when we're back here in the next race, we're talking a great run at Martinsville and everybody completely forgets about the other one."

Harvick dominates truck race at Martinsville

By HANK KURZ Jr.
AP Sports Writer

MARTINSVILLE, Va. — Pole-sitter Kevin Harvick led all but two laps and won the spring NASCAR Truck Series race at Martinsville Speedway on Saturday for the third time in the past four years.

The former truck team owner yielded the top spot to teammate Ty Dillon for the fourth and fifth laps, but left no doubt which truck was best in leading a series-record 248 laps.

It was his fourth career start from the pole in the series, and he's won all four races.

It also was his first victory in the truck series for team owner Richard Childress. Until this season, Harvick owned his own truck teams, but gave that up in the offseason.

"I said to Richard when he leaned in the window, 'Why did I ever start a race team?'" he said. "Can you imagine how many wins we would have if we'd never done that?"

This one looked simple, and felt precariously easy, Harvick said.

"Nine times out of 10, when you have trucks like this, or cars, and you have a day like that where you think you're by far the fastest, usually they never work out," he said, "so today was a special day to win the pole, lead the most laps and win the race."

"It's something that you don't do very often. I'm pretty happy for everybody."

Dillon, in his fourth start, was in close communication with Harvick's team all day and ran second almost the entire race, but had to hold off James Buescher on a restart with six laps to go. He did that easily, and followed Harvick to a comfortable second-place finish.

"I think our truck was just as good. That's just Harvick," Dillon said. "He's been in a lot of races here, won a lot of races. Second place in my first start at Martinsville. I'll take it."

Buescher held on for third, followed by Justin Lofton and Timothy Peters.

TENNIS

Sharapova loses in Key Biscayne final

By STEVEN WINE
AP Sports Writer

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. — The two finalists met at the net to shake hands, Maria Sharapova standing a head taller, even with her shoulders slumped in disappointment.

She finished second again Saturday. Sharapova lost serve in the final game of each set and fell short in the latest bid for her first Sony Ericsson Open title, losing to Agnieszka Radwanska 7-5, 6-4.

Sharapova, a three-time Grand Slam champion, is winless in four Key Biscayne finals. She was also the runner-up in 2005, 2006 and last year.

The pattern extends beyond South Florida. Ranked No. 2, she was runner-up at both the Australian Open and Indian Wells to Victoria Azarenka, which makes her 0-for-3 this year in finals.

"It's always tough, because you do a really good job to get there," Sharapova said. "It's obviously always the toughest round."

She hasn't won a tournament since August.

Radwanska, ranked a career-best fourth, earned her ninth career title and fourth since last summer. She's 0-4 in 2012 against the top-ranked Azarenka and 26-0 against everyone else.

The match was 72 minutes old before Radwanska hit her first baseline winner. She was content to play the role of counterpuncher and extend rallies until the more aggressive, harder-hitting Sharapova would make a mistake.

There was a 28-stroke rally in the first game, but many of the points were quick, with Sharapova often too eager to end them. She finished with 45 unforced errors, most due to an unreliable backhand.

The relentless Radwanska committed only 10 unforced errors while chasing down almost everything, sometimes scooping balls at shoe-top level to keep a point going.

"She hit a lot of good balls on the run, and they were deep," Sharapova said. "She didn't just bring them back; she had something on them. Then the few errors on important points that I made, I thought maybe I shouldn't have gone for the line so much, and aimed a little bit closer to the middle."

The 5-foot-8 Radwanska used pinpoint placement of her serves to compensate for their modest pace, and erased all three break points she faced.

"Today was a very tight match," she said. "I think I was just better for couple of points each set."

Top-ranked Novak Djokovic will try for his third Key Biscayne title and second in a row when he plays 2009 champion Andy Murray in the men's final today.

STATE OF INDIANA }
COUNTY OF MORGAN } SS: IN THE MORGAN CIRCUIT COURT
IN RE THE ADOPTION OF: CAUSE NO. 55C01-1107-AD-0074
NICHOLAS JOHN SANTIAGO
PUBLISHED NOTICE TO PETER JOHN SANTIAGO
Peter John Santiago, who has been named the father of the child born to Lynn Marie Rike March 19, 2003, is notified that a Petition For The Adoption of the above named child was filed in the office of the Clerk of Court, Morgan County, Indiana, P.O. Box 1556, Martinsville, Indiana 46151.
On said date, the petitioner also filed his praecipe for summons along with supporting affidavits showing that diligent search has been made and that Peter John Santiago cannot be located.
If Peter John Santiago wishes to contest the adoption of the unborn child, the putative father must file a paternity action to establish his paternity in relation to the unborn child not later than thirty (30) days after the receipt of this notice.
If Peter John Santiago does not file a motion to contest the adoption; or a paternity action under IC § 31-14 within thirty (30) days after service of this notice; or after filing a paternity action under IC § 31-14 fails to establish paternity within a reasonable period as determined by the paternity court under IC § 31-14-21-9 through IC § 31-14-21-11, then the above named court will hear and determine the petition for adoption. His consent will be irrevocably implied and he will lose his right to contest either the adoption or the validity of his implied consent to the adoption. He will lose his right to establish his paternity of the child under IC § 31-14.
Nothing Lynn Marie Rike or anyone else says to Peter John Santiago relieves Peter John Santiago of his obligations under this notice.
Under Indiana law, a putative father is a person who is named as or claims that he may be the father of a child born out of wedlock but who has not yet been legally proven to be the child's father. For purposes of this notice, Peter John Santiago is a putative father under the laws in Indiana regarding adoption.
This notice does not exhaustively set forth the putative father's legal obligations under the Indiana statutes. A person being served with this notice of publication should consult the Indiana adoption statutes.

CLASSIFIEDS

You haven't filed an income tax report in how long?

Dishonesty never pays

Governments lose billions of tax dollars every year from the income of individuals and businesses, as well as from unpaid taxes. Tax evasion can take many different forms: Tax shelters, undeclared work, excessive tax planning, omitting to submit an income tax return or to declare revenue earned from investments on the stock exchange, etc.

Consequences for tax evaders
Tax evasion has major consequences for those who are caught: It can result in a criminal conviction. If they are found guilty, they could receive a heavy fine, go to prison or end up with a criminal record with all the negative repercussions this situation can result in.

Consequences for the general public
This embezzlement of public funds also has consequences for society in general.

Governments invest considerable sums of money in attempting to catch poor payers and tax evaders. This money, added to that lost every year due to tax evasion, amounts to a huge loss of revenue for governments. These losses directly affect their level of debt and influence their capacity to provide services and to finance programs in response to the needs of our society; social programs are often the first to be cut. Moreover, law-abiding individuals see their tax burden increased unfairly.

Tax evaders, as much as society in general, are affected by tax evasion. So pay what you owe now before having to pay too much at a later date.

Friday's Jumbles: AWARE WHILE BEAUTY GATHER
Answer: Helen Hunt was anxious to star in "Twister" after the script — BLEW HER AWAY

HAPPY BIRTHDAY: Initiate new ways of doing things. Incorporate interesting and unusual pastimes into your routine. You need to expand your interests and your concerns. Get involved in causes you feel strongly about and you will connect with people who can contribute to your success. Strive for equality in all you do and you will find peace of mind. Your numbers are 1, 5, 12, 18, 22, 30, 41.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Take time out for you. Pampering or doing something you enjoy will ease your stress and help you think clearly about your plans. New options will open up if you diversify. Finding new ways to utilize your skills will pay off. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Don't let the little things bother you when you have so much to gain by jumping in feet-first and testing the waters. Whether it's your personal or professional life, you will excel if you take an all-or-nothing approach. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Not everyone will be honest with you. Ask questions if you feel you are being given the run-around. Make whatever changes are required to make your home and personal life

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Don't take the words or actions of others to heart. Make whatever changes you feel are necessary, but do so secretly. It's better to have everything in place before you share or present your plan to those eager to

Most people wouldn't dare call chiseled WWE superstar John Cena any names, let alone "a bowl of Fruity Pebbles."

But in the lead up to their WrestleMania 28 match today in Miami, that's exactly what actor Dwayne Johnson told Cena he looked like, referencing Cena's colorful clothes.

Instead of getting upset, Cena said he turned the situation around by contacting the cereal maker. Now he's on "three million boxes of the stuff."

Though WWE trash-talk is script-

IN THE STARS

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Dig in and help someone in need. The experience you gain and the impression you make will pay off. Uncertainty at home may lead to a family feud. Be prepared to mediate in order to keep the peace. GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Dig in and help someone in need. The experience you gain and the impression you make will pay off. Uncertainty at home may lead to a family feud. Be prepared to mediate in order to keep the peace.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Don't let anyone take advantage of your kindness and generosity. You can offer suggestions, but not handouts. A service you have to offer should be marketed properly so you can make a little extra cash on the side. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Too much will lead to disaster. Emotions will skyrocket and love troubles will lead to excessive behavior if you don't remain calm and assess your situation realistically. If you aren't being treated properly, move on. An alternate route looks positive. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): You need a little adventure in your life. Embark on a new hobby or travel somewhere you've never been. Focus on love, self-improvement and striving for a better and healthier lifestyle. Take the initiative and make things happen. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Review your personal and professional position. You can alter your status if you offer your time or expertise to others. Giving back to your community or helping to raise money for a good cause will enhance your reputation and bring opportunities. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Don't let the little things bother you when you have so much to gain by jumping in feet-first and testing the waters. ed, Cena said he has experienced real-life trash-talk as a child. Now, he is heavily involved in the Be-A-Star anti-bullying campaign. According to the former WWE champion, he was bullied because he loved rap in a town where it wasn't popular. He started lifting weights to protect himself.

"By the time I was 15, I was a built kid, and the comments didn't come so often, and the people making fun of me fell by the wayside," Cena said.

Cena wants young people to know that not everyone is going to like you for who you are: "The best way to get back at them is to put a smile on your face and do whatever you can to succeed."

ROLLING art SHOW

Photos by NEAL CARDIN/The News-Enterprise

One artist used the entire side of an auto rack as a canvas for all to see as the car moves across the country in a train.

A rolling art show passes through Hardin County on a daily basis as each CSX train pulls at least one car that has been decorated by a graffiti artist. Auto rack cars seem to have become graffiti artists' favorite canvasses as they often sit for long periods of time in railyards. A few cans of different colors of spray paint and a few minutes of time, and an artist has created a unique piece of art. If caught, the artist can be charged by railroad authorities and police with trespassing and defacing of property, among other charges. Here is a small sample of the artwork passing through our area. All work photographed is on auto rack cars.

One artist put his own version of March Madness on a car panel.

Some artists or groups put their signature on their work. Some graffiti contains messages within the art for fellow artists to read or answer with more art work.

A detail shot of an artist's work. The artist included the year the work was done.

Some graffiti artists use just a small part of the rail cars. Most of the work is done while standing on the ground, thus the lowest part of the car is painted.

This piece of artwork has been signed by the artist. The signature is on the left side of the painting.

Many colors and designs transform block letters into a unique piece.

DEAR ABBY

Happy collection of foolish letters are all in good fun

■ Dear Readers: It's April Fools' Day, the one day I can share some of those letters I receive from readers whose questions might not seem as appropriate on any of the other 364 days of the year (or 365 this leap year). Enjoy.

MERMAID MOM. Dear Abby: I am a 23-year-old female who lives with my parents. I saw "The Little Mermaid" for the first time recently, and now I'm very worried.

The other day I walked in and caught my mom talking to my pet fish, Flounder. I have noticed Mom breaks into Broadway-style songs randomly, just like Ariel did in the movie. She also has the same red hair as Ariel. Mom is a lifeguard at the local pool.

Could my mom be part fish? If so, am I half-mermaid? I will await your reply before attempting underwater breathing. Please answer promptly. — Sea-ing Things Clearly

■ Dear Sea-ing: Clean your goggles, honey, because you're seeing less clearly than you think. Your mother is not related to Ariel, and you are not a mermaid, but your letter is a fish tale.

GAMBLING HELP. Dear Abby: For years I have heard about players winning thousands of dollars on casino slot machines. But every time I try to win one, I run out of cash before hitting it. How can I win a jackpot before I go broke? Hurry your answer because my money is running out. — Unlucky in Jersey

■ Dear Unlucky: Slot machines are not called "one-armed bandits" for nothing. While I can't advise you on how to win a jackpot, I can tell you how not to go broke. Try this: Don't gamble.

TODAY/TONIGHT. Dear Abby: At what time does "today" turn into "tonight"? — Clock Watcher in Utah

■ Dear Clock Watcher: Ask me tomorrow.

NAKED POOL BOY. Dear Abby: I have an amazing pool man. I have known him for quite a while. My neighbors have been complaining because he likes to work naked. His working in the buff never bothers me; I think he looks like a Greek statue and he does a great job. My pool has never looked better. I have had several pool cleaners before, but none of them compare to the current one. What should I do? — California Girl

■ Dear California Girl: Although I don't live nearby, it's not hard to see why no other pool cleaner compares to this one. Assuming your pool is fenced, I'm advising you to do nothing "butt" enjoy the view.

LET'S TALK ABOUT SEX. Dear Abby: Why does our society insist on using the euphemism "sleeping together" in place of "having sex"? — Curious in Kettering, Ohio

■ Dear Curious: That's easy — so the children won't know where they came from.

Dear Abby is written by Abigail Van Buren, also known as Jeane Phillips, and was founded by her mother, Pauline Phillips. Write Dear Abby at www.DearAbby.com or P.O. Box 69440, Los Angeles, CA 90069. Universal Press Syndicate.

'TWEEN 12 &amp; 20

Teachers should never date students

Dr. Wallace: You advised a high-school girl to inform the school principal that a male teacher asked her for a date. I think this was a stupid answer. If the girl is 17 or 18, she is no longer considered a girl. She is a young woman. Teachers have the right to date anyone they choose.

What if the guy had been a 22-year-old mechanic and the girl was an 18-year-old senior? Would you have told the girl to report the date offer to the owner of the repair shop? Of course not. Wake up, Dr. Wallace, this is 2012, not 1912. — Pete, Dallas, Texas

■ Pete: I don't care if it's 1912 or today, high-school teachers have no business soliciting dates from their students. It's unethical and unprofessional.

Could a teacher give a student an honest grade if that teacher was dating the student? What if a teacher bribed a student with an A if she would go out with him? Teachers who date students should be ex-teachers.

If I was made aware one of our male teachers had asked a girl student for a date, when I had the honor of being a high-school principal, I would have asked the superintendent to remove him from the school and to terminate his teaching contract immediately.

FEMALE ATHLETES SHOULD COMPETE AGAINST FEMALES. Dr. Wallace: Why do they have athletic teams for boys and separate teams for girls?

ROBERT WALLACE

Why don't they just have "teams" and let the best players play on them? — Cindy, Kerrville, Texas

■ Cindy: If male athletes competed against female athletes for positions on school athletic teams, not many female athletes would be able to make a team. Things are fine just the way they are. More female athletes are participating in interscholastic athletics than any time in our history. That's great.

STAY AT ONTARIO HIGH SCHOOL. Dr. Wallace: I'm a 15-year-old girl and live near Ontario High School, and I'm in the 10th grade. All of my friends go to OHS and so far, I like it here.

My boyfriend attends Montclair High School, which is only two minutes away from my dad's work. My boyfriend wants me to transfer to MHS so we can spend more time together.

If given that choice, should I stay at OHS or transfer to MHS? — Sara, Ontario, Calif.

■ Sara: Stay at Ontario High School, and somehow I think your parents would agree. Unless there are unusual situations, I always recommend students attend the school near their home and in their local school district.

ORGANIZATIONS

STEPHENS IS GUEST SPEAKER AT RADCLIFF ROTARY CLUB MEETING

A recent guest at the Radcliff Rotary Club meeting was Dr. Ron Stephens, associate dean at Western Kentucky University. Stephens, an Elizabethtown AM Club member, gave a review of the WKU program at Elizabethtown Community and Technical College campus. A student can enroll at ECTC and complete a bachelor's degree through WKU in Hardin County. The Radcliff Rotary meets at noon Thursdays at Colvin Community Center in Radcliff.

Anneliese Knoll, president of Potted Few Garden Club, paints and decorates clay ivy pots for the 81st annual Convention of Kentucky Garden Clubs.

Potted Few Garden Club members prepare for convention

The Fort Knox Potted Few Garden Club is preparing for The Garden Clubs of Kentucky's 81st annual convention April 2 to 5 at Barren River State Resort Park in Lucas. This year's theme is "In Touch With Nature," and several Potted Few members plan to attend.

Each club in the Dogwood District has assumed responsibility for preparation assistance. Potted Few members will furnish a flowering plant for the registration table, and the club will furnish table decorations for the April 4 banquet. Club president Anneliese Knoll has painted and decorated 100 clay flower pots with cheery spring flowers, and they will each have a started miniature ivy plant for those who attend.

CHURCH NEWS. On April 7, New Horizon Baptist Fellowship will host its annual "Children's Easter Celebration" with a gigantic egg hunt beginning at 10 a.m. Bring a container for the eggs and join in for a morning of fun and celebrate with children. On April 8 at 7 a.m., New Horizon will have an Easter sunrise service and everyone is invited to attend. The service will be in the upper parking lot of the church. If the weather does not permit an outside meeting, the service will be in the worship center.

New Horizon Baptist Fellowship members would like to thank all the churches from Hardin and LaRue County, businesses and individuals who helped with sending a semi-truck load of much needed supplies to West Liberty on March 24. New Horizon Baptist and Harvestland Community from Hodgenville took 20 people to West Liberty on March 24 to deliver supplies and spent the day working with clean up and organizing the supplies for distribution. The plan is to return to West Liberty the week of June 2 through 9 and assist families in the rebuilding of their homes. We hope to return with another truck load of supplies and materials and will be accepting donations through noon May 30. In 32 years of being involved with missions around the world and responding to help people after seeing the destruction and devastation in West Liberty, the pastor never has seen a greater need for help. Again, thank you to all who helped in any way. For those who would like to be involved in the June 2-9 mission trip, please call 737-4386 and leave a message for the pastor or drop off your donations at the church on Sunday or Wednesday of each week. Please no furniture or clothes at this time. Please visit www.newhorizonbaptist.org for additional information and pictures of the most recent trip. God bless all of you for your willingness to reach out to hurting people.

DONATION. Trevor Mather has acquired $1,000 for the Cecilia/South Hardin ball fields from Lucas Metals.

SUBMIT YOUR NEWS. Please email papercarma@hotmail.com with any news or ideas. Please use the subject heading "South Hardin news" to ensure it is opened. I will not open any emails without this heading.

LETTER OF THANKS

Great service from a great community

On July 30, 2011, I experienced a fire caused by lightning that struck the rear corner of my house. I was at Fort Knox when this had happened, but my wife, Carmen, experienced the traumatic event.

After rushing home, I was greeted with the roaring fire at the rooftop of my house. It was then I noticed the large number of emergency personnel who were treating the blaze. After the paramedics asked if we needed any medical attention, the Radcliff fire chief guided us into the house to review the damage. The house was severely damaged from the flames, but some of our belongings were pulled to safety. I was greatly impressed by the speed and performance of the Radcliff Fire Department. They not only worked hard to put the fire out, but also to protect our belongings.

It is inevitable though that no matter how hard they tried there were many items destroyed. After opening a claim with Farm Bureau Insurance, I received a call from adjuster Andy Games. He, and his team worked very timely and effectively to get us into a temporary residence and to get repairs under way. They were absolutely great at getting the project moving along and rebuilding what again, is our home.

It is companies such as Farm Bureau and the Radcliff Fire Department, which act selflessly and provide outstanding service, that make Hardin County the community it is today. We would like to take this opportunity to say thank you for your hard work and support.

BLUE OR RED? By the time this column comes out we will know who won in the Kentucky/Louisville game played in the final four Saturday in New Orleans. Either way our state will be represented Monday night in the championship game. I hope it's my team. I bleed blue, mom bleeds red.

Everywhere I go, people are talking about the big game. We laugh and say the state would shut down while the game was played.

FOUND. A reader found two small dogs, probably Chihuahua mixes, who definitely were raised together as they won't stray from one another. They are very friendly and have collars but no tags. They stayed outside with them for a couple hours and they didn't try to leave, which normally farm dogs do. My friends still have them and they are safe, the home is located half way between the school and the club in Howeallevy. Call 862-4088.

COMMUNITY CLUB. There will be an Easter Egg Hunt from 2 to 4 p.m. April 7 at Howeallevy Elementary School. The Easter Bunny will be there. You can have your picture taken with the Easter Bunny for $2. There are two different age groups: kindergarten through second grade and third through fifth grade. The egg hunt is sponsored by the Howeallevy Vertrees Community Club.

The Howeallevy Vertrees Community Club's next meeting is at 6:30 p.m. April 23. Everyone is welcome. To join the club the fee is $1 per person. There will be a meal before the meeting. There is a committee meeting about Howe-valley Vertrees Days at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Howeallevy Vertrees Community Club. Everyone is welcome.

Check out the Howeallevy Vertrees Community Club on Facebook for more information on what's going on with the club.

ROOK. Rook is played at 7 p.m. each Thursday at the Howeallevy Vertrees Community Club building.

GET-WELL WISHES. Get-well wishes to Brother Roger Stillwell, Elsie Johnson, Melvin Duvall, Clara Chappell Rexroat, Gayle Evans, Adam Hay, Opal Smallwood and Cathy Morgan.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY. Happy birthday wishes to Garreth Woodson and Bobby Woosley on April 1; Amber Miles (8 years) on April 2; Sandy Stout on April 3; Paul Cowherd, Riley Elliott (15 years) and Mark Miller (9 years) on April 4; Jimmy Lucas, Darlene Nall, Roy Davis, Donna Hatfield and Shelby Miller (15 years) on April 5; April Lucas, Tabitha Aldridge and Christopher Marshall (12 years) on April 6; Katie Lewis on April 7; Eric Goodman on April 8; and Jenna Grey (7 years) on April 9.

PLAY. My mom and sister attended the play "Chicago" at the Hardin County Performing Arts Center on March 23. The Central Hardin High School students did a great job.

HOOVERWIT. The Hoovers used to live by a cemetery and it was said to be haunted. Their mother always said, "It's not the dead that will hurt you, it's the living."

Oh the beauty of spring. Yesterday, Floyd brought me a bouquet of lavender and white lilacs with a sprig of yellow turnip blossoms and had it sitting on the table when I came up from doing laundry in the basement. No one can say I don't have a thoughtful husband. We wish to thank everyone who gave best wishes or congratulated us on our wedding anniversary this past Sunday.

BIRTHDAY WISHES. Birthday greetings this month to Connie Hatfield, April 4; Jimmie Uzzell, April 7; Louie Tillotson and Duane Whitford, April 8; Cathy Golden, April 9; Willie Berry, April 11; Karen Hunley, April 12; Kaitlyn Claggett and Wayne Barnes, April 15; Joyce Seymour and Carrie Claggett, April 16; Floyd Dodson and Sam Smallwood, April 20; Becky Higdon, April 23; Jennie Childers, April 24; Sue Cheatwood and Sherman Black, April 25; Betty Mc-

Clagherty, Margie Henderson and Julie Jenkins, April 27; Bobby Smallwood and David Neary, April 29; Erika Black, April 30. Willie Berry and Floyd Dodson will celebrate their 91st birthdays.

WELCOME. Welcome to our new neighbors who bought the Nellie Woodring House at auction. Treavor Ritchie and his bride moved Tuesday of last week. We hope they will be very happy with their new home and have many, many happy wedding anniversaries.

VISITS. Floyd and I visited with Wayne and Marcia Barnes on Saturday afternoon. They were babysitting their grandson, our great-grandson, Brody, while Brock and Ashley Barnes attended a wedding in Louisville. I hadn't seen Brody since Christmas. He was 2 years of age Tuesday, and they really change a lot in a short time at that age. As with all grand or great-grandparents, to us he is the most beautiful child, ever.

Ruby Parker enjoyed having her niece, Marie Mauricette Faiewell, and husband, Les, of Charlottesville, Prince Edward Island, Canada, spend a few days this past week with her.

Radcliff Woman's Club members support SpringHaven

The Radcliff Woman's Club met March 12 for a "shower" for SpringHaven Domestic Violence Program.

Josette Roush, coordinator of the donation project, asked members to bring items to benefit the domestic violence shelter, which serves as a protective home for women and children. Club members arrived at the meeting with 97 rolls of paper towels, 38 bottles of dishwashing liquid and 14 bottles of hand sanitizers, all valued at an estimated $246. Club members also donated swimming passes, a pizza party, Halloween snacks and Easter baskets to the shelter.

CHURCH NEWS. Be sure to mark your calendars for the April 29 fifth Sunday singing at 6:30 p.m. at Ridge Springs United Methodist Church on Ky. 220, about two miles west of the Rineyville Dollar General store. Guest singers will be "God's Little Voices." Their singing will warm your heart. Come for an evening of inspiration. Also, the youth of Ridge Springs Church will perform the service at 9 a.m. April 29. Come hear some great preaching from one of the youth. This is something you won't want to miss.

COLLEGE HEIGHTS NEWS. The Rev. Joe Bennett delivered the message Sunday morning, and as usual did a good job. Pastor Sparks' family spent Saturday moving to another location, now on Chestnut Street, the former district superintendent parsonage, which they felt was better suited for their family. Because of this, he did not feel well-enough prepared to present the morning service.

The Administrative Council met at the church and was well attended. Several items of business were brought up and discussed. Some were brought to a vote, others were put on hold temporarily, awaiting approval of trustees. Some study groups are upcoming, including possibly a new member class. New members not already oriented to the church curriculum would have a better understanding of the Christian life from the class.

Donna Scruggs, who has served as choir director of the contemporary and traditional services, has stepped down as leader of the contemporary service, which will relieve her of the stress of directing two services in a row.

It also was announced that 16 have signed up for the next mission trip. A group already has gone once to help those suffering from the tornado disaster in March.

There will be a Baptist-mal service June 1.

Volunteers are needed for the golf scramble as a fundraiser for the Panama Mission trip. Volunteers are needed to solicit sponsors from businesses, etc. If interested, contact Terry Coy, 982-3503 evenings, (502) 613-5556 work or cell 401-1997.

Today is Palm Sunday. Those wishing to purchase Easter lilies in honor of or in memory of someone must let church secretary Judy Ward know by today. Price is $6 per potted plant.

GET-WELL WISHES. Get-well concerns to Danissa Lewis, Ilsa Ach's brother, Cynthia Fullen, Billy Parker, Martha Sappenfield, Don Sappenfield, Floyd Dodson, Phyllis Ruff, Wanda McCoy, Amy Smith, Lois Morrissey, Bill Nalley, Linda Funk's mother, Mrs. Turner, Wilma Jean Cundiff, Mary Koche, Michael Stophor. If you have recovered and wish your name removed from the get-well list, please call me.

Continue to pray for the leaders of our country and military, wherever they may be.

SYMPATHY. Sympathy is extended to Betty Paul's family, and all others losing loved ones. May God's peace and blessings be with you.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY.

"Like branches on a tree, we may grow in different directions, yet our roots remain as one." — Unknown.

HELPFUL HINT. To spot-treat soiled garments and ring around the collar, I keep a mixture of equal amounts of detergent, Dawn or Tide, pure ammonia and water in a spray bottle and spray dirty or greasy spots. You may let it set for a while for better performance. I have never stained anything with this mixture, but if in doubt, try it on an inconspicuous area first.

SUBMIT YOUR NEWS. I need your news, so please send to idodson17@windstream.net or call if you prefer, 862-3808. If necessary to leave a message, please speak your phone number twice slowly, so that I may call you back. Thanks.

Prosecutor in Trayvon case known as tough

By MIKE SCHNEIDER
The Associated Press

SANFORD, Fla. — The special prosecutor leading the investigation into the shooting death of an unarmed black teen by a neighborhood watch volunteer is known for her tough tactics aimed at locking up criminals for long sentences and making it difficult to negotiate light plea bargains.

Furthermore, 57-year-old Angela Corey has handled hundreds of homicide cases involving the justifiable use of deadly force — experience that could prove invaluable. It will be up to Corey whether to charge 28-year-old George Zimmerman, the neighborhood watchman who says he was defending himself when he fatally shot 17-year-old Trayvon Martin during a scuffle. Martin was unarmed as he walked from a convenience store, and the case has become a racial flashpoint with protesters across the nation calling for his arrest. Zimmerman's father is white, his mother Hispanic.

Police did not initially charge Zimmerman because of a state law allowing someone to use deadly force if his life is in danger.

Corey, who also could call a grand jury to decide whether to file charges against Zimmerman, is known in legal circles as being passionate about victim's rights and having clubby ties to law enforcement. She won the State Attorney's Office seat after being fired from her job at the office a few years ago, beating the handpicked successor of the state attorney who fired her.

Corey was appointed the special prosecutor in the case by Gov. Rick Scott after State Attorney Norm Wolfinger, whose district covers Sanford, recused himself.

Since she took on the case a dozen days ago, Corey and her team of two prosecutors and an investigator have interviewed witnesses in Sanford and visited the scene of the shooting. She also has instituted a media blackout, refusing to comment on any aspect of the case as of this week. Corey refused to take any questions about the Trayvon Martin case during a telephone interview on Friday.

Defense attorneys who have gone up against Corey in court say she is up for the job.

"She is a tough-minded prosecutor who is prepared, thorough and a very good advocate for the prosecution in the court," said Ann Finnell, a Jacksonville defense attorney who has faced off against Corey during a trial.

EVENT

Hamfest is April 7

The Lincoln Trail Amateur Radio Club will host the 34th annual Hamfest beginning at 8 a.m. April 7 at Elizabethtown Community and Technical College's State Fire and Rescue Training Facility, 603 College Street Road, Elizabethtown.

A Hamfest is a sale of new and used amateur radios and electronic parts. This year's Hamfest features several vendors indoors and an outdoor flea market. It open to the public and is attended by electronics enthusiasts from all over Kentucky and surrounding states.

Testing by ARRL volunteer testers for new and upgrading FCC amateur licenses is available. Registration for testing begins at 9:30 a.m. and testing begins at 10 a.m. The cost for testing is $15, no checks. A picture ID and a copy of any previous license is required.

Correctable stains

Dear Heloise: Can you please help me? My son was in school and someone shook a bottle of typewriter correction fluid and got stains all over his brand-new shirt, and he is very upset. Is there anything that can help remove this type of stain? Thank you so much. — Keisha, via email

■ Oh no. Try rubbing a citrus-based, grease-cutting spray cleaner on the stains. This type of cleaner contains petroleum distillates, so work in a well-ventilated area. This hopefully will emulsify, or break apart, the spotting. Then launder as usual.

You also can take it to a dry cleaner and tell them what the stain is. It should be treated as would an oil-based paint stain. Good luck.

P.S.: If the stains don't come out, use the shirt as an "artist's smock."

STORE HOURS. Dear Heloise: Most stores post their hours of operation on their doors. I take a picture with my cellphone of the hours at the stores I shop at frequently so I can check them at a moment's notice. — Jill in Tustin, Calif.

■ A great way to save time and frustration.

SHAPELY SHAMPOO BOTTLES. Dear Heloise:

Shampoo bottles seem designed with no place to grip. I solved this by pouring my shampoo into a small, empty, plastic honey bottle shaped like a bear. It is easy to hold, doesn't slip out of your hands, and the lid pops open to dispense the shampoo. Just be careful the bottle doesn't find its way back to the kitchen. — Marcia B., Spring, Texas

ELECTRIC-BLANKET HINTS. Dear Readers: Do you own an electric blanket? Here are some hints about these blankets:

■ Check for signs of wear or damage to the wiring. If you see any, throw the blanket away. It's a fire hazard.

■ Don't use safety pins on the blanket; this could lead to shock or fire.

■ Never use an electric blanket with an infant.

■ Completely unfold the blanket before using.

■ Always unplug the blanket after each use.

CLASSIC LETTER OF THOUGHT. Dear Readers: Below is a classic Letter of Thought from the files:

Dear Heloise: As soon as my two sons showed the least curiosity to help Mommy, I let them. Now, as older teenagers, doing any household chore, from cooking to cleaning, seems natural. They also know how to do outside chores.

My reward? Two appreciative future daughters-in-law who will someday marry these knowledgeable, willing house-husbands. — Donna J., from 1981

ORGANIZATIONS

LACEY LUNDY RECOGNIZED

ROTARY SPONSORS SPEECH CONTEST

The area Rotary speech contest was held March 20 at the Elizabethtown Rotary Club. Participants were, from left, home-school student Caleb Moore, Syreeta Briggs of North Hardin High School, Quinn Towery of Allen County's Scottsville High School and Omar Banihani of Elizabethtown High School.
